About the Course

The A-level course encourages you to use your speaking, listening, reading and writing skills to learn about issues affecting the world today. You will, of course, be looking at them through the medium of German/French/Spanish and considering particularly how they affect the German/French/Spanish speaking countries. Topics covered will include:

German: family, youth culture, media, festivals & traditions, multiculturalism, the German reunification, art, Berlin and politics

French: family, media, education & the world of work, festivals & traditions, immigration, multiculturalism and the resistance.

Spanish: family, tourism, the world of work, music, media, festivals & traditions, multiculturalism, immigration and the Franco dictatorship
We also study literature and film.

Learning Strategies: A mixture of teaching and learning methods is used e.g. teacher presentation and explanation, group discussion, paired work and individual study. Articles from the press, current audio recordings and podcasts are used to provide extra up-to-date material. As far as possible, lessons are conducted in German/French/Spanish, although grammar explanations are given in English.

Assessment

Paper 1: Listening, Reading and Writing: Written Paper, 1 hour 50 minutes – 40% of total marks. This includes listening and responding, reading and responding and a translation into English.

Future Applications

The study of a language enables students to develop and build on the skills acquired at GCSE; enhances employment prospects; facilitates foreign travel and provides an insight into another culture and society. Knowledge of a foreign language will allow you to compete effectively in the global economy, broaden your horizons and increase your appreciation of other cultures.
