PART 1. NOUNS, ADJECTIVES AND PRONOUNS

1. NOUNS

1.a. GENDER

A noun is a word used to denote a person, animal, place, thing or idea:

PERSON: man, woman, lady, lawyer

ANIMAL: dog, cat, mouse

PLACE: home, garden, moon, Logroño

THING: table, computer, tomato

IDEA: loneliness, idea, freedom.

All nouns in Spanish are either MASCULINE or FEMININE, including places, things and ideas:

MASCULINE	FEMININE
chico	chica
ratón	rata
Portugal	España
bolígrafo	mesa
aburrimiento	desesperación

When you learn a new noun in Spanish you must always learn whether it is masculine or feminine.

Usually, nouns that end in -o are masculine and nouns that end in -a are feminine:

humano (m), ojo (m), anuncio (m)

casa (f), mesa (f), muñeca (f).

There are a lot of exceptions though!

problema (m), tema (m), mapa (m), telegrama (m)

mano (f), radio (f), soprano (f), moto (f)

When nouns refer to people they often have a masculine and a feminine form. If the masculine form ends with an o, the feminine form usually ends in an a. If the masculine ends in a consonant, we often add an a to the feminine form:

MASCULINE	FEMININE
chico	chica
tío	tía
señor	señora
profesor	profesora

When a noun ends in -e, it usually is the same in its masculine and feminine forms:
estudiante, elefante.

In order to be sure about the gender of a noun we need to look at the articles that accompany them (el or un are masculine; la or una are feminine). However, you can sometimes tell by their ending:

- nouns that end in -sión, -ción, -dad, -tad, -tud, -umbre are feminine:
la tensión, la acción, la ciudad, la lealtad, la costumbre.

- most nouns that end in -a are feminine, but there are a few that are masculine. A lot of them end in -ma:

el día, el sofá, el planeta, el periodista, el artista, el mapa el tema, el problema, el teorema, el dilema, el poema, el clima, el programa, el sistema, el idioma, el telegrama.

- most nouns that end in -o are masculine, with very few exceptions:
la mano, la soprano, la radio, la moto

A few feminine nouns that start with a and the stress of the word falls on the first syllable actually take the masculine article (el or un), simply because it is easier to pronounce. This only happens when we use the singular form:

el agua las aguas
el águila las águilas

PRACTICA:

1. Which word is masculine?

día	costumbre	decisión	incertidumbre
-----	-----------	----------	---------------

2. Which word is feminine?

poema	sofá	mano	tema
-------	------	------	------

3. ¿Cuál es la palabra masculina?

universidad	revisión	cuidad	mapa
-------------	----------	--------	------

4. ¿Cuál es la palabra femenina?

número	teléfono	abuelo	radio
--------	----------	--------	-------

5. ¿Cuál es la palabra masculina?

mañana	palabra	problema	tarea
--------	---------	----------	-------

6. ¿Cuál es la palabra masculina?

chica	abuela	sistema	amiga
-------	--------	---------	-------

7. ¿Cuál es la palabra masculina?

cama	llama	sistema	rama
------	-------	---------	------

8. ¿Cuál es la palabra femenina?

sistema	tema	planeta	novia
---------	------	---------	-------

9. masculine or feminine?

tele	tema	idioma	modista
mano	teorema	diversidad	artista
ciudad	soprano	sistema	pianista
problema	foto	similitud	violinista
gratitud	universidad	moto	violoncelista
radio	magnitud	improvisación	bajista
libertad	caridad	religión	periodista
vejez	validez	clima	guionista
disco (night cub)	estación	estupidez	florista
planeta	yoga	región	optimista (noun)
juventud	realidad	amistad	idiota (noun)

1.b. NUMBER (SINGULAR AND PLURAL)

The rules to make nouns plural in Spanish are fairly straight-forward:

- If a noun ends in a vowel, make it plural by adding -s

niño – niños

mesa – mesas

costumbre – costumbres

- If the noun ends in a consonant, make it plural by adding -es

señor – señores

ciudad – ciudades

The accompanying articles also must change, of course

el niño – los niños

una señora – unas señoras

Some nouns will require extra spelling changes when making them plural:

- if a word ends in a consonant and there is a written accent on the final syllable, this accent disappears when you add -es to make it plural:

un inglés – unos ingleses

una tradición – unas tradiciones

- if a noun ends in -z, this becomes -c- when adding -es to make it plural:

una perdiz – unas pedices

un lápiz – unos lápices

- a few compound nouns do not change when you make them plural:

el paraguas – los paraguas

un abrelatas – unos abrelatas

el paracaídas – los paracaídas

PRACTICA:

A. Make the following nouns plural:

1. el payaso
2. el lápiz
3. la ciudad
4. la madre
5. el mapa
6. la conversación
7. la habitación
8. la codorniz
9. el ratón
10. el ordenador
11. la peonza
12. el ser
13. el joven (careful!)
14. el paraguas
15. el abrecartas

B. True or false?

1. If a noun ends in -o, make it plural by adding -s.
2. If a noun ends in -ión, make it plural by simply adding -es.
3. If a noun ends in -a, make it plural by adding -s.
4. If a noun ends in -ión, make it plural by adding -es and dropping the written accent.
5. To form the plural of nouns that end in a vowel, add -s.
6. If a noun ends in a consonant, make it plural by adding -es.
7. If a noun ends in -z, make it plural by changing the z to c, and adding -es.

C. What's the singular form of the following nouns?

- | | |
|---------------------|--------------------|
| 1. las decisiones | 11. unos alemanes |
| 2. los matices | 12. unos relojes |
| 3. los franceses | 13. las águilas |
| 4. las habitaciones | 14. las naranjas |
| 5. los coches | 15. los ganadores |
| 6. las aguas | 16. las virtudes |
| 7. los señores | 17. los paraguas |
| 8. las arañas | 18. las vacaciones |
| 9. los lápices | 19. los japoneses |
| 10. las portuguesas | 20. los ingleses |

2. ARTICLES

In Spanish there are four forms for the definite article and four forms for the indefinite article:

Definite article (the):

- el (masculine, singular)
- la (feminine, singular)
- los (masculine, plural)
- las (feminine, plural)

Indefinite article (a, an, some)

- un (masculine, singular)
- una (feminine, singular)
- unos (masculine, plural)
- unas (feminine, plural)

Remember: feminine singular (only singular!) nouns that begin with an emphasised a or ha use the masculine form of the article:

- el agua – las aguas
- el haba – las habas

In Spanish we tend to use the definite article with body parts and clothes when in English you say “my”:

- me lavo la cara
- me he roto la mano
- no encuentro la bufanda

PRACTICA:

A. True or false?

1. There are only two definite articles: el and la.
2. There are four definite articles: el, la, los, las.
3. There are only two indefinite articles: un and una.
4. There are four indefinite articles: un, una, unos, unas.
5. Un means both a and one, when used before a masculine noun.
6. When referring to a specific noun, use the indefinite articles.
7. Una means both a and one, when used before a feminine noun.
8. You choose the form of the article by whether or not the noun it introduces is masculine or feminine, singular or plural.
9. If a noun is masculine and singular, we always use “el” as its definite article
10. The right way of saying “the classroom” is “el aula”
11. The right way of saying “the classrooms” is “los aulas”
12. The right way of saying “one wing” is “una ala”
13. The right way of saying “the wing” is “los alas”
14. There is no plural form of the noun “abrelatas”

B. Change the definite articles for their equivalent indefinite articles:

- | | |
|-------------------|--------------------|
| 1. el armario | 7. el águila |
| 2. las uvas | 8. los atardeceres |
| 3. los dátiles | 9. la gente |
| 4. los matices | 10. el mar |
| 5. las caniciones | 11. las tijeras |
| 6. los profesores | 12. los pantalones |

C. Fill in the gaps with the right definite article

- | | |
|--------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. Ana se lava ____ manos | 6. Paco no se lavó ____ dientes |
| 2. Voy a ponerme ____ sombrero | 7. Para dormir me pongo ____ camisón |
| 3. Me duele ____ cabeza | 8. He perdido ____ guantes |
| 4. Ayer me corté ____ pelo | 9. ¡Quítate ____ bufanda! |
| 5. Me he roto ____ mano | 10. No te pongas ____ falda roja |

D. Fill in the gaps with the right definite article

- | | |
|---------------------|-----------------|
| 1. ____ aula | 7. ____ águilas |
| 2. ____ alas | 8. ____ agua |
| 3. ____ hambre | 9. ____ hachas |
| 4. ____ ala | 10. ____ aulas |
| 5. ____ ama de casa | 11. ____ alma |
| 6. ____ asma | 12. ____ águila |

3. ADJECTIVES

We often think of adjectives as “describing words”: they describe the noun they accompany.

Usually adjectives in Spanish go after the noun they modify, although they can go at the front:

“una chica alegre” sounds better than “una alegre chica”

In Spanish, adjectives have to agree with the noun they modify. This means that if the noun is masculine the adjective takes a masculine form. If then noun is feminine, the adjective must also be feminine. Likewise, use the plural form of the adjective to describe plural nouns.

el chico guapo – la chica guapa – los chicos guapos – las chicas guapas

If the masculine singular form of an adjective ends in -o, then change into -a for the feminine form and add -s for the plural forms:

alto, alta, altos, altas

If the masculine singular form of an adjective ends in -e, the feminine also ends in -e. Add -s for the plural forms:

inteligente, inteligente, inteligentes, inteligentes

If the masculine singular form of an adjective ends in a consonant, the feminine form often ends in the same consonant, although there are many exceptions. Add -es to make it plural:

azul, azul, azules, azules

Adjectives of nationality that end with a consonant usually have a feminine form that ends in -a. Add -es or -as to make them plural:

español, española, españoles, españolas

If the masculine form of these adjectives has an accent on the final syllable, this accent disappears when you make it feminine or plural:

alemán, alemana, alemanes, alemanas

Adjectives that end in -or, -án, -ón, or -ín in their masculine form usually have a feminine form that ends in -a:

hablador – habladora

charlatán – charlatan

tontorrón - tontorrón

chiquitín - chiquitina

Notice that the accents in -án, ón, ín disappear when you make them feminine. Make the plural forms following the usual rules.

PRACTICA:

A. Fill in the gaps with the right form of the adjective:

1. negro: Hay una pluma _____ encima de la mesa.
2. alto: La chica _____ está en el jardín.
3. pequeño: Hay tres libros _____ en mi estantería.
4. poco: Hay _____ chicas en mi clase.
5. mucho: Hay _____ chicos en su colegio.
6. emocionante: Es una historia muy _____.
7. posterior: PASEN a la parte _____.
8. rubio: Tiene pelo _____.
9. castaño: Él tiene pelo _____.
10. horrible: Carlos es una persona _____.
11. francés: La chica _____ está en la casa.
12. español: Hay tres chicos _____ en mi clase.
13. francés: Los pasteles _____ son excelentes.
14. alemán: Mercedes-Benz es una compañía _____.
15. hablador: Ella es una chica _____.
16. trabajador: Él es un hombre poco _____.

B. Translate:

16. the popular girl (popular)
17. That young boy is my cousin. (joven)
18. That young girl is my niece. (joven)
19. Those young boys are my nephews. (joven)
20. Those young girls are my cousins. (joven)

4. COMPARATIVES AND SUPERLATIVES

MORE...THAN, LESS...THAN

Comparisons in Spanish are fairly simple, just follow the following pattern:

más / menos + adjective + que (more / less + adjective + than) más/ menos + noun + que (more / less + noun + than) más / menos + adverb + que (more / less + adverb + than)

Ejemplos:

Soy más alto que tú.

Hay más gente que ayer.

Intenta hacerlo más rápido que antes.

If using an adjective, this has to agree (gender and number) with the first element of the comparison:

Pedro es más bajo que María.

María es más alta que Pedro.

Pedro y María son más altos que sus padres.

Ana y Eva son más altas que Pedro.

AS...AS

For comparisons of equality, use the formula

tan + adjective + como tan + adverb + como

tanto (a/os/as) + noun + como

When using an adjective, this has to agree with the first element of the comparison:

Pedro es tan alto como yo.

María es tan alta como yo.

When using a noun, tanto has to agree with the noun:

Tengo tanto dinero como tú.

Tengo tanta paciencia como mi madre.

Tengo tantos hermanos como tú.

Tengo tantas hermanas como tú.

IRREGULAR COMPARATIVES

Just like in English, some of the most common adjectives have an irregular comparative:

bueno – mejor (not “más bueno”)

malo – peor (not “más malo”) grande – mayor (although “más grande” is also used) pequeño – menor (although “más pequeño” is also used)

Usually, we say “más grande” or “más pequeño” when comparing size, and “mayor” or “menor” when we talk about age:

Mi hermano es mayor que yo

Mi coche es más grande que el tuyo

SUPERLATIVES

In English, the superlative is expressed by using the word “most” (or “least”) or the ending “-est” added to an adjective. The equivalent to this in Spanish is the following structure:

definite article + más (or menos) + adjective + de (don’t say “en”!)

Ejemplos:

Carlos es el más alto de la clase.

Ana es la más alta de la clase.

Carlos y Ana son los más altos de la clase.

Carlos y Pedro son los más altos de la clase.

Remember to use the right form of the article and the adjective, so that they agree in gender and number with the subject of the sentence.

There is another way of expressing the superlative in Spanish, by adding the endings –ísimo, –ísima, –ísimos or –ísimas to an adjective. We refer to this as the “absolute superlative”, and it translates loosely as “incredibly + adjective”:

Carlos es altísimo – Carlos es incredibly tall.

Ana es altísima – Ana is incredibly tall.

As it was the case with comparatives, some adjectives take irregular forms in the superlative:

bueno – el mejor (not “el más bueno”)

malo – el peor (not “el más malo”) grande – el mayor (although “el más grande” is also used) pequeño – el menor (although “el más pequeño” is also used)

With the last two, we tend to use the regular form (“el más grande”) to talk about size and the irregular form (“el mayor”) to talk about age.

PRACTICA:

a. Comparatives: translate.

1. You are taller than me.
2. Pedro is fatter than you.
3. The cat is less intelligent than the dog.
4. My car is bigger than your car.
5. I'm taller than you (feminine).
6. My house is whiter than the snow.
7. Isabel is less chatty than before.
8. Watching television is better than reading.
9. You are as nice as your brother.
10. His job is worse than mine.
11. Ana is as old as Juan.
12. Spanish is as difficult as French, but it's more useful.
13. French is as useful as Spanish, and it's less complicated.
14. Adjectives are as difficult to learn as nouns, but not as difficult as verbs.

b. Superlatives

A. Translate the following sentences.

1. El Prado is the most famous museum in Spain.
2. Carlos is the tallest boy in the class.
3. She is the smallest girl in the room.
4. She is the youngest girl in the room.
5. This house is the prettiest of all.

15. Friends is the funniest program of all.
16. Elaine and Teresa are the tallest of the group.
17. He is the smartest in the family.
18. The apple is the tastiest fruit in the world.

B. Choose the best answer.

19. Carmen is very pretty.
 - Carmen es muy guapa.
 - Carmen es sumamente guapa.

20. Luz is extremely pretty.
 - Luz es muy guapa.
 - Luz es sumamente guapa.
 - Luz es guapísima.
21. The food is indescribably delicious.
 - La comida es muy rica.
 - La comida es sumamente rica.
 - La comida es riquísima.

5. POR AND PARA

Por and para tend to cause a lot of trouble to English speakers, as they can both translate as “for”. A useful way of remembering the difference is that, generally speaking, “por” expresses “origins” and para expresses “purpose”. A more comprehensive list of uses follows:

POR

- To express gratitude or apology: “Perdón por haberte ofendido”
- For multiplication or division: “Cuatro dividido por dos es dos”
- For frequency: “Voy al cine dos veces por semana”
- To mean “along”, “through”, “by” or “in the area of”: “Voy a dar un paseo por el campo”
- To mean “in exchange for”: “Me dio cien euros por el cuadro”
- To mean “on behalf of” or “in favor of”: “Hago esto por mi familia”
- For parts of the day: “Por la tarde está cerrado, pero por la mañana abrimos como siempre”
- For means of communication: “¿Te llamo por teléfono o hablamos por Whatsapp?”
- When followed by an infinitive, to express that an action remains to be completed: “La cena está por cocinar”
- To express cause or reason: “Fue a la cárcel por ladrón”
- To express the agent in passive constructions: “El puente fue construido por los romanos”

PARA – it has relatively fewer uses:

- To indicate destination: “Vamos para el centro”
- To show the use or purpose of a thing: “Necesito un boli para escribir una carta”
- To indicate a recipient: “Este regalo es para mi madre”
- To express a deadline: “Acábalo para mañana”
- When followed by an infinitive, to mean “in order to”: “¿Qué tengo que hacer para aprobar?” N.B. In this sort of sentence, in English you don’t always have to say “in order to”, since “to” on its own will suffice. However, in Spanish you must say “para”. This is easily one of the most common mistakes when learning Spanish.

Sometimes, using por or para can completely change the meaning of a sentence:

Voy a comprar un regalo para mi madre (“mi madre” being the recipient of the gift”)

Voy a comprar un regalo por mi madre (on behalf of my mother)

¿Por qué estudias idiomas? (What is the reason of you studying languages?)

¿Para qué estudias idiomas? (What is the purpose of you studying languages?)

PRACTICA:

A. Complete the sentences with “por” or “para”

1. _____ eso, volvió tarde. (For that reason he returned really late.)
2. La chica fue _____ el bolígrafo. (The girl went for/to get the pen.)
3. Una casa cuesta _____ lo menos treinta mil euros. (A house costs at least thirty thousand euros.)
4. Llegué tarde _____ el tráfico. (I arrived late because of the traffic.)
5. ¿Me enviaste el dinero _____ correo? (Did you send me the money by mail?)

19. Estudio _____ aprender, no _____ aprobar. (I study in order to learn, not in order to pass.)
20. El coche iba a 100 KM _____ hora. (The car was doing 100 kilometers per hour.)

6. CONTRACTIONS

Contractions are not very common in Spanish, but there are two that you need to remember:

a + el = al

de + el = del

Note that this only applies to the article el, never the pronoun él:

voy al cine

dile a él lo que me has dicho a mí

Also, a or de followed by la, los or las are never contracted.

voy al cine

voy a la piscina

voy a los toros

voy a las piscinas

Likewise, we don't use contractions when the article el is part of the name of a place:

Voy a El Retiro

Mi novia viene de El Salvador

AHORA PRACTICA:

Fill in the gaps with “al”, “a la”, “a los”, and “a las” or “del”, “de la”, “de los” and “de las”

1. ¿De dónde vienes? Vengo _____ fiesta _____ universidad.
2. ¿A qué hora llamas a _____ profesora?

14. ¿Adónde llevan _____ muchachas?
15. Llevamos a las muchachas _____ centro comercial.
16. ¿De quién son los libros? Son _____ profesor.
17. ¿De quién son los libros? Son _____ profesora.
18. ¿De quién son las plumas? Son _____ profesores.
19. ¿Adónde vas? Voy _____ cine.
20. ¿Adónde van ustedes? Vamos _____ cafetería.

7. NEGATIVES

The basic way to turn a sentence negative in Spanish is to place the word “no” before the verb:

No me llamo Ana.
No tengo dinero.
No hay mucha gente.
No me gusta el invierno.
No es importante.

The word no must always precede the verb. Never say things like “~~Es no importante~~”, “~~Tengo no dinero~~” o “~~Hay no cuarto de baño~~”

There are other negative words that you need to remember:

nada – nothing (or “not anything”) nadie – nobody (or “not anybody”) ningún, ninguno, ninguna – no, none nunca, jamás, nunca jamás – never tampoco – neither, not either ni...ni – neither... not (or not either...or) ya no – not anymore, no longer

Ejemplos:

Nada me sorprende – Nothing surprises me
Nadie me entiende – Nobody understands me
Nunca jamás me histe caso – You never paid attention to me
No me gusta el jamón tampoco – I don’t like ham either
No tengo ni hermanos ni hermanas – I don’t have (n)either brothers (n)or sisters
Ya no estudio alemán – I don’t study German anymore

The negative words above can precede the verb:

Nunca llegas a tiempo – You are never on time

They can also be placed after the verb, but when this is the case the word “no” is needed before the verb:

No llegas nunca a tiempo – You are never on time

Double, triple and even quadruple negatives are perfectly normal in Spanish:

- No entiendo nada
- No entiendo nunca nada
- Yo no entiendo nunca nada tampoco

PRACTICA:

A. Write the necessary word(s) to form a logical negative sentence:

Examples:

Mario habla español: Mario no habla inglés.

A Carlos le gusta todo: A Carlos no le gusta nada.

1. Ella habla inglés casi siempre: Ella _____ alemán.

2. Él es profesor: Él _____ arquitecto.

3. Hay pocos alumnos en el colegio: _____ muchos alumnos en el colegio.

4. Juana es colombiana: Juana _____ española.

5. La gata come poco pan: La gata _____ mucho pan.

6. ¿Has estado en Australia? No, _____ en Australia.

7. ¿Todavía estudias español? No, _____ español.

8. ¿Estamos ya en Alaska? No, _____ en Alaska.

9. ¿Es Raquel médica? No, Raquel _____ médico.

10. ¿Es Alfredo de aquí? No, Alfredo _____ de aquí.

11. ¿Tiene algo que declarar? No, no tengo _____ que declarar.

12. ¿Hay algo para comer? No, no hay _____ para comer.

13. ¿Tiene alguien mi diccionario? No, _____ tiene tu diccionario.

14. ¿Hay alguien en la casa? No, _____ en la casa.

15. ¿Deseas comprar algunos objetos también? No, no deseo comprar _____ objeto _____

16. Eva no estudia español. Paco_____ estudia español. (neither does Paco)

17. ¿Tiene alguna revista? No, no tengo _____ revista.

18. ¿Siempre haces los deberes? No, _____ hago los deberes

19. ¿Quieren bailar el chico y la chica? No. _____ el chico _____ la chica quieren bailar.

20. ¿Entiendes? _____ entiendo _____ quiero entender.

8. QUESTIONS

One of the peculiarities of written Spanish is that we always write an inverted question mark at the beginning of a question:

¿Cómo te llamas?

¿Dónde vives?

¿De dónde venimos, quiénes somos, qué hacemos aquí?

This is simply because, unlike other languages there are no other markers that differentiate between a statement and a question (in other words there is no equivalent to the word “do” in “do you speak English?”), so the upside-down question mark at the beginning is a simple way to indicate that a question follows.

Hablas inglés – You speak English

¿Hablas inglés? – Do you speak English?

Vives solo – You live alone

¿Vives solo? – Do you live alone?

Es su hermana – She’s his sister

¿Es su hermana? – Is she her sister?

Sometimes we turn a statement into a question by adding “¿no?” to the end of that statement:

Hablas inglés, ¿no? – you speak English, don’t you?

There are also some adverbs that you need to remember:

dónde – where adónde – where to cómo – how (or “what...like”: ¿Cómo es tu pueblo? – What is your town like?)

cuál or cuáles – which, what, which one cuándo – when cuanto/a – how much cuantos/as – how many qué – what quién(-es) – who por qué – why

para qué – what for

Qué and cuál can be a bit tricky to use, as they can both mean “what”. When followed by the verb “ser”, cuál usually means which one, whereas qué is used to elicit an explanation or a definition:

¿Cuál te gusta más? – Which one do you like best?

¿Cuál es la capital de Francia? – What is the capital of France?

¿Qué te gusta hacer? – What do you like to do?

¿Qué es una capital? – What is a capital?

2. ¿Adónde/De dónde vienes?
3. ¿Quién / Quiénes son tus padres?

5. ¿Cómo / Como te llamas?
6. ¿Cuántas / Cuánta personas hay?

11. ¿Cuánto / Cuándo se celebra San Fermín?
12. ¿Cómo / Qué se escribe tu nombre?

1. ¿_____? Sí, Carlos habla francés.
2. ¿_____? No, Ana no está aquí.
3. ¿_____? Voy a la piscina.
4. ¿_____? Está en París.
5. ¿_____? Soy de La Rioja.
6. ¿_____? Fui anteayer.
7. ¿_____? No sé.
8. ¿_____? Es de goma.
9. ¿_____? Es mi padre.
10. ¿_____? De mi abuela.
11. ¿_____? Es mío.
12. ¿_____? Porque somos amigas.
13. ¿_____? ¿Y por qué no?

9. PERSONAL A

While very simple to use, forgetting to use the “personal a” is one of the most common mistakes for learners of Spanish.

The rule says that in Spanish, when the direct object of a sentence is a person or a group of people, it must be preceded by the preposition a:

He visto a tu hermana – I have seen your sister

He visto una película – I have seen a film

(The direct object of a sentence is the noun or pronoun that receives the action of a verb. For instance, if the verb is “I have bought” the direct object is what the person speaking has bought: I have bought a new car)

Sometimes we use the personal a when we talk about pets (but not when talking about animals you don’t feel any attachment to):

He llevado a mi gato al veterinario – I have taken my cat to the vet.

He visto un gato callejero – I have seen a stray cat.

We also use it with sports teams, the government or other organisations:

Voy a ver al Real Madrid – I am going to see Real Madrid

Odio al gobierno – I hate the government

Hay que respetar a la Policía – You have to respect the Police.

We never use the personal a with the verbs “tener” or “hay” (in any tense):

Tengo una hermana – I have a sister

Hay mil personas – There are 1000 people

Finally, if the direct object mentions more than one person, you need the personal a before each of them:

Voy a visitar a mi padre y a mi madre. Y después a mis abuelos.

I am going to visit my dad and my mum. And then my grandparents.

AHORA PRACTICA:

A. Choose the correct answer:

1. Veo Pedro / a Pedro.
2. Veo el futuro / a el futuro.
3. Busco Carlos / a Carlos.
4. Busco mi boli / a mi boli.
5. Llevo mi novia / a mi novia a la fiesta.
6. Llevo la comida / a la comida a la fiesta.
7. Nunca escucho los estudiantes / a los estudiantes.
8. Nunca escucho la radio / a la radio.
9. Visito mi novio / a mi novio los fines de semana
10. Visito la ciudad / a la ciudad de mi novio una vez al año.
11. ¿Cuántos hermanos tienes? Tengo dos hermanos / a dos hermanos.
12. ¿Llamas a María o Elena / a Elena?
13. Llamo María / a María.
14. ¿Tu amigo lleva mi hermana / a mi hermana a la fiesta?
15. No, lleva a tu hermano / tu hermano.
16. ¿Tienes muchos hermanos / a muchos hermanos?
17. Sí, tengo muchos hermanos / a muchos hermanos.
18. Leo la revista / a la revista.
19. ¿Quién / A quién esperas?.
20. Vemos los niños / a los niños.

10. RELATIVE PRONOUNS

Relative pronouns are called “relative” because they “relate” to a noun that has previously been stated. In practical terms, relative pronouns simply combine two sentences that share a common noun. In the following example, the common noun is “libro”:

¿Dónde está el libro?

Where is the book?

Uso el libro en clase de español.

I use the book in my Spanish lesson.

¿Dónde está el libro que uso en clase de español?

Where is the book that I use in my Spanish lesson?

The most common relative pronoun is "que". "Que" is the Spanish equivalent of the English words who, whom, which, and that; it can refer to both people and things, and it can take the place of the subject or the object of a relative sentence:

El hombre que vino ayer – The man who came yesterday (subject)

El hombre que conocí ayer – The man whom I met yesterday (object)

El terremoto que hubo ayer – The earthquake that happened yesterday (subject)

El libro que perdí ayer – The book that I lost yesterday. (object)

Note that, while in English you can often miss out the relative pronoun in a sentence, in Spanish you must always include it:

El hombre que conocí ayer – The man (that) I met yesterday

Sometimes you can use the pronoun quien (or quiénes) instead of que. However, in order to avoid confusion you might always want to use que instead of quien, unless the relative refers to a person (quiénes if it's more than one) and follows a preposition.

El hombre que conocí ayer

El hombre con quien hablé ayer

El hombre a quien conocí ayer

El hombre de quien te hablé ayer

El hombre para quien trabaja

El hombre con quien trabaja

El hombre por quien abandoné a mi marido

When the relative refers to a thing rather than a person and it follows a preposition, que must be used: El boli con que firmé.

In English, although it is actually incorrect, it is quite common to end a relative sentence with a preposition:

The man that I told you about

The pen I signed with

The woman I work for
The things I'm thinking of

In Spanish you can never do this. It is wrong and it sounds awful!!!

The man (that) I told you about – El hombre de quien te hablé

The pen (that) I signed with – El bolí con el que firmé

The woman (who) I work for – La mujer para quien trabajo

The things (that) I'm thinking of – Las cosas en (las) que estoy pensando

When the relative refers to an abstract idea, use lo que instead:

Todavía no sé lo que quiero – I still don't know what I want

Lo que dices es increíble – what you say is incredible

Whose is cuyo in Spanish, and it has a feminine form (cuya) and a plural form (cuyos, cuyas). It must agree with the thing being owned, not the owner:

El niño, cuya madre llegó tarde, estaba triste – The boy, whose mum was late, was sad.

La niña, cuyo padre llegó tarde, estaba triste – The girl, whose dad was late, was sad.

PRACTICA:

A. Re write the sentences using a relative adjective or pronoun. Use the English translation to help you.

1. La señora es anciana. La señora compró una casa. The lady, who is old, bought a house.
2. Tienes el reloj. El reloj es mío. The watch that you have is mine.
3. Tengo el libro. Quieres el libro. I have the book that you want.
4. Escribo con una pluma. La pluma es roja. The pen with which I am writing is red.

B. Choose the correct relative pronoun, "que" or "quién".

7. El coche en el _____ estoy pensando es nuevo.
8. La señorita en _____ estoy pensando es guapa.
9. Ella es la mujer con _____ trabajo.
10. La pluma de la _____ hablas es negra.

C. Fill in the gaps with a relative pronoun or adjective:

19. Es un músico _____ fama es mundial.
20. ¿Son ellos los niños _____ padre es el dueño de la tienda?

11. POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES AND PRONOUNS

Possessive adjectives and pronouns are used to show ownership. They are the equivalents to “my” or “mine”.

POSSESSIVE ADJECTIVES

Possessive adjectives precede a noun, and they must agree in with that noun. All of them have plural forms, and two of them also have feminine forms:

mi(s) – my tu(s) – your (singular) su(s) – his, her nuestro/a(s) – our vuestro/a(s) – your (plural) su(s) – their

Ejemplos:

mi amigo – my friend
mis amigas – my (female) friends tu amigo – your friend sus amigas – his/her friends nuestros amigos – our friends vuestras amigas – your (female) friends sus amigos – their friends

POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS

Possessive pronouns do not accompany a noun, they replace it:

mi libro – my book (adjective)
el mío – mine (pronoun)

The possessive pronouns in Spanish are:

mío – mine
tuyo – yours
suyo – his / hers nuestro – ours vuestro – yours
suyo – theirs

Each of these has a masculine singular, feminine singular, masculine plural and feminine plural form, as they have to agree in gender and number with the noun they replace:

mío, mía, míos, mías

Additionally, possessive pronouns are often preceded by the definite article:

el mío, la mía, los míos, las mías.

PRACTICA

Possessive adjectives:

A. Translate:

1. your (singular) classes
2. your (plural) telephone
3. his daughter
4. her children
5. our house
6. your (singular) car
7. their mirrors
8. my table

B. Write the correct word in order to form a logical response.

15. ¿Cuándo abrirán los niños _____ regalos? - When will the kids open their gifts?
16. ¿Necesitan ustedes _____ libros? - Do you-all need my books?

C. Translate, then replace with a possessive adjective:

example: Ana's idea – La idea de Ana – su idea (her idea)

17. Juan's book
18. My mum's sister
19. Marta's pen
20. My parents' wedding

Possessive pronouns:

A. Translate:

1. mine (el cuaderno)= el mío

2. yours (las clases)

3. yours (el teléfono)

4. his (la casa)

5. hers (los hijos)

6. ours (la mesa)

7. yours (el horario)

8. theirs (los libros)

9. mine (la corbata)

10. hers (el libro)

11. hers (las cartas)

12. hers (la carta)

13. theirs (las cartas)

B. Translate into English:

1. ¿Me prestas tu bolígrafo? No encuentro el mío

2. Tus padres no son tan estrictos como los míos.

3. Me encanta tu casa, pero me gusta más la mía.

4. Los míos están delante, los tuyos detrás. Y los suyos no sé dónde ponerlos.

5. ¿Ese cuaderno es el mío?

6. No es el tuyo, es el mío.

7. Si tu familia está de vacaciones puedes venir a cenar con la mía.

8. No creo que su proyecto sea tan impactante como el nuestro.

9. Espero que mis hijos sean más educados que los tuyos.

10. Si juntamos los tuyos y los míos al final tendremos veinte y todavía faltan los suyos.

12. DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES AND PRONOUNS

Remember the difference between an adjective and a pronoun:

- An adjective modifies (describes) a noun
- A pronoun replaces a noun

Demonstrative adjectives and pronouns are “this” and “that” in English. In Spanish, however, there are three demonstrative adjectives and pronouns (with masculine, feminine, singular and plural forms) instead of two: este (this), ese (that) and aquel (that one over there).

The three words above (este, ese, aquel) are demonstrative adjectives. The demonstrative pronouns are exactly the same, but they always have a written accent: éste, ése, aquél.

As mentioned above, each of the three demonstrative pronouns and adjectives change gender and number to agree with the noun they describe or replace:

ADJECTIVES

este, esta, estos, estas

ese, esa, esos, esas

aquel, aquella, aquellos, aquellas

PRONOUNS

éste, ésta, éstos, éstas

ése, ésa, ésos, ésas

aquél, aquélla, aquéllos, aquéllas

Each demonstrative pronoun has a neutre form: it can be used to replace both masculine and feminine nouns, and they are used to replace ideas or unknown objects:

¿Qué es esto? – What is this?

Eso es una tontería – That is just silly

¿Ves aquello? ¿Qué será? – Can you see that thing over there? What can it be?

The neutre form is always written without the accent.

AHORA PRACTICA

A. Fill in the gaps with the correct demonstrative adjective that corresponds to "this" or "these."

1. this pen: _____ bolígrafo
2. this notebook: _____ cuaderno
3. these girls: _____ muchachas

11. that tree over there: _____ árbol
12. those buildings over there: _____ edificios

D. Choose the correct demonstrative adjective or demonstrative pronoun.

18. _____ libro es mío, pero ése es suyo. This book is mine, but that one is his.
19. ¡_____ es absurdo! This is absurd!
20. _____ no me molesta. That doesn't bother me.

13. DIRECT OBJECT PRONOUNS

The direct object is the direct recipient of the action of the verb; it can be a person, an object or an idea:

I bought a house

I wrote a book

She saw me

I found a solution

It is easy to identify the direct object by asking the question “what” (or “whom”) is being affected by the subject’s action:

I bought a house: What did I buy? A house

I wrote a book: What did I write? A book

She saw me: Whom did she see? Me

I found a solution: What did I find? A solution

Sometimes the direct object is replaced by a pronoun to avoid repetition:

I bough a house, I re-decorated the house and I sold the house: I bought a house, I re-decorated it and I sold it.

In Spanish we use the following direct object pronouns:

me (me)

te (you)

lo, la (him, her)

nos (us)

os (you all)

los, las (them) (les is accepted instead of los)

The direct object pronoun in Spanish always precedes the verb:

me vio – she saw me

te amo – I love you

la perdí – I lost it

nos engañó – he fooled us

os odio – I hate you!

no los aguento – I can’t stand them

N.B – The direct object pronouns “lo”, “la”, “los” and “las” agree in gender and number with the object, person or idea that they replace, not with the subject of the sentence:

Juan tiene el cuaderno – Juan lo tiene / María tiene el cuaderno – María lo tiene

Juan tiene la pluma – Juan la tiene / María tiene la pluma – María la tiene

In a negative sentence with one verb, the direct object pronoun is placed between the negative word and the conjugated verb:

Los compras. - No los compras.

Guadalupe siempre lo estudia. - Guadalupe nunca lo estudia.

Ellos nos conocen. - Ellos no nos conocen.

In sentences that include a conjugated verb and another verb in either the infinitive or the gerund form, the direct object pronoun can go before the conjugated verb or attached to the end of the infinitive / gerund:

Quiero visitarla – La quiero visitar

Voy a hacerlo – Lo voy a hacer

Me está ayudando – Está ayudándome

Os están viendo – Están viéndoos

PRACTICA:

A. Complete the sentences with the correct pronoun (me, te, lo/la, nos, os, los/las).

1. They want the book: _____ quieren.
2. I know them: _____ conozco.
3. Juan knows me: _____ conoce.
4. You don't love me: No _____ amas.
5. You-all drink my wine: _____ bebéis.
6. He buys the magazines: _____ compra.
7. They see Maria at the weekend: _____ ven los fines de semana.
8. I don't have the pencil: No _____ tengo.
9. You-all want the house: Todos _____ queréis.
10. I love you: _____ amo.

B. Answer the following questions. The answer will substitute a pronoun for the direct object noun.

1. ¿Dónde compra Pablo los libros? _____ compra en la librería.
2. ¿Conoces a Carla? Sí, _____ conozco.
3. ¿Ves concursos en la tele? Sí, _____ veo.
4. ¿Dónde estudiaste español? _____ estudié en Alicante.
5. ¿Comprenden ustedes esta lección? Sí, _____ comprendemos.

C. Re-write the sentences substituting a pronoun for the direct object. For each sentence there are two possible answers, as shown by the example.

Ejemplo: No puedo entender tu argumento: No puedo entenderlo / No lo puedo entender

1. Quiero ver la nueva película de Batman:
2. ¿Quieres comprar mi casa?
3. María debe visitar a sus abuelos más a menudo.
4. ¿Puedo invitar a mi novio?
5. No quiero hacer eso.

14. INDIRECT OBJECT PRONOUNS

The indirect object of a sentence is the recipient of the direct object. Every sentence must contain a verb. Many verbs have a direct object. However, not every sentence that has a direct object has an indirect object:

Paula passed the parcel. (The direct object is the parcel. The parcel has no recipient in this sentence, therefore, there is no indirect object.)

Paula passed her father the parcel. (The indirect object -i.e., the recipient of the parcel- is her father.)

As it is the case with the direct object, the indirect object is sometimes replaced with one of the following pronouns:

me (me)
te (you)
le (him, her) nos (us)
os (you all)
les (them)

The indirect object pronoun comes immediately before the conjugated verb in a sentence:

Compré una casa a mi padre – Le compré una casa.

Escribí una carta de amor a mi novia – Le escribí una carta de amor.

Me dio muy malas noticias.

Very often, just to add emphasis, we actually say the direct object even when it has been replaced by a pronoun:

Le compré una casa a mi padre.

Le escribí una carta de amor a mi novia.

Me dio muy malas noticias a mí.

In sentences that include a conjugated verb and another verb in either infinitive or a gerund form, the indirect object pronoun can go before the conjugated verb or attached to the end of the infinitive / gerund:

Quiero comprarle una casa – Le quiero comprar una casa

Voy a darle un regalo – Le voy a dar un regalo

Me está contando la historia – Está contándome la historia

Os están diciendo mentiras – Están diciéndoos mentiras

PRACTICA:

A. Underline the direct object and circle the indirect object.

1. He gave her the ring.
2. He sang them a song.
3. Give the dog a bone.
4. Tell my friend some jokes.

B. Choose the correct pronoun.

1. Juan compra flores para su novia: Juan _____ compra flores.
2. El camarero da el menú a los chicos: El camarero _____ da el menú.
3. Ellos dan una propina a mí: Ellos_____ dan una propina.
4. Compro el libro para ti: _____ compro el libro.

C. Translate the phrases. Ejemplo: she gives him... (dar): ella le da...

1. we give them... (dar):
2. she gives us... (dar):
3. they (masculine) give us... (dar):
4. you-all (formal) give me... (dar):
5. Sara buys me... (comprar):

D. Change the following sentences so that they are negative, and replace the IO noun with the correct IO pronoun.

Ejemplo: Compro el libro para Juan: No le compro el libro.

1. Escribo una carta a mi novio: _____ una carta.
2. El camarero da la cuenta a Juan: El camarero _____ la cuenta.
3. Rosana mandó una postal a nosotros: Rosana _____ una postal.
4. Traigo el libro a Susana: _____ el libro.
5. Ustedes dan los abrigos a nosotros: Ustedes _____ los abrigos.

E. Translate the following sentences. Remember, there will be two different possibilities, as shown by the example:

Ejemplo: I don't have to sell her the car: No tengo que venderle el coche / No le tengo que vender el coche.

1. I don't have to tell you anything.
2. I could never buy myself the car. (Use the normal rules, it's easier than it looks)
3. They don't want to sell you the house. (use the tú form)
4. We should rent them the apartment.

15. DIRECT AND INDIRECT PRONOUNS USED TOGETHER

When you have a direct and an indirect pronoun in the same sentence, the indirect object pronoun always comes first:

Me la dio – He gave it to me

Te lo conté – I told (it) to you

Se la compré – I bought it for her

Whenever both pronouns start with “l”, change the first one to “se”:

le lo – se lo

le la – se la

le los – se los le las – se las les lo – se lo

les la – se la

les los – se los les las – se las

The reason for this change is simply that it is easier to say (and it sounds better).

In sentences that include a conjugated verb and another verb in either infinitive or a gerund form, the pronouns can go both before the conjugated verb or both attached to the end of the infinitive / gerund:

Quiero decírselo – Se lo quiero decir

Estoy contándoselo – Se lo estoy contando

AHORA PRACTICA:

A. Fill in the blanks with the appropriate direct or indirect object pronoun.

N.B. Unless otherwise noted with (f), "it" and "them" are masculine, and "you" refers to the familiar form (tú).

1. He gives it to me. Él _____ lo da.

2. They give them to me. Ellos me _____ dan.

3. We give them (f) to you. Nosotros _____ las damos.

4. I tell it to you. Yo te _____ digo.

5. They give it to you. Ellas te _____ dan.

6. They write it (f) to you. Ellos _____ la escriben.

7. He buys them for you. Él te _____ compra.

B. Fill in the blanks with the appropriate pronouns. Don't forget to change the first pronoun to "se" when necessary.

Unless otherwise noted with (f), "it" and "them" are masculine, and "you" refers to the familiar form (tú).

1. He sings it (f) to her: Él _____ canta.

2. We sing it (f) to you: Nosotros _____ cantamos.

3. We tell it to them: Nosotros _____ decimos.

4. I tell it to them: Yo _____ digo.

5. She buys them for you: Ella _____ compra.

6. She cooks it (f) for him: Ella _____ cocina.

7. We cook it (f) for him: Nosotros _____ cocinamos.

C. Fill in the blanks with the appropriate pronouns. Don't forget to change the first pronoun to 'se' when necessary.

Unless otherwise noted with (f), "it" and "them" are masculine, and "you" refers to the familiar form (tú).

Ejemplo: I should bring it to them: Debo traérselo. / Se lo debo traer.

1. They should buy them (f) for you:

2. We have to sell it to her:

3. You should send the letter to your family:

4. You have to tell it to her:

16. APOCOPATION:

There are a few adjectives in Spanish that are shortened sometimes when they appear before nouns. We call this “apocopation”.

The most common of these by far is uno, the number "one," "a" or "an." As you know, it is shortened to un when it comes before a singular masculine noun: un chico ("a boy") but una chica ("a girl").

Here are seven other adjectives, all (apart from “postrero”) are quite common, that are shortened when they precede a singular masculine noun, as in these examples:

- alguno ("some"): algún lugar ("some place")
- bueno ("good"): el buen samaritano ("the good Samaritan")
- malo ("bad"): este mal hombre ("this bad man")
- ninguno ("no, " "not one"): ningún perro ("no dog")
- postrero ("last"): mi postrer adiós ("my last goodbye")
- primero ("first"): primer encuentro ("first encounter")
- tercero ("third"): Tercer Mundo ("Third World")

Note that the adjectives above are not shortened when they precede feminine or plural nouns: algunos libros ("some books"), tercera mujer ("third wife").

A few other adjectives are apocopated under other circumstances:

Grande: The singular grande is shortened to gran before a noun in both the masculine and feminine. In that position, it usually means "great", rather than "big" or "large": un gran momento ("a great moment"), la gran explosión ("the great explosion"), Gran Bretaña (Great Britain).

Cualquiera: When used as an adjective, cualquiera ("any" in the sense of "whatever") drops the -a before a noun: cualquier persona ("any person"), cualquier nivel ("whatever level").

Ciento: The word for "one hundred" is shortened before a noun or when used on its own: cien dólares ("100 dollars"), cien millones ("100 million"). But it is not shortened within a number: ciento doce, ("112").

Santo: The title for a saint is shortened before the names of most males: San Diego ("St. James"), San Francisco ("St. Francis"). But the long form is retained if the following name begins with Do- or To-: Santo Domingo ("St. Dominic"), Santo Tomás ("St. Thomas").

PRACTICA:

A. Some of the following sentences are correct, some contain mistakes. Correct the mistakes.

1. Tengo uno hermano y una hermana.

17. SER Y ESTAR

One of the biggest difficulties when learning Spanish is getting your head around the uses of the verbs ser and estar. They both translate as to be, but their use is not interchangeable.

Look at the typical example:

La manzana es verde – The apple is green (it is a green apple)

La manzana está verde – The apple is green (unripe)

This example illustrates the main uses of the two verbs: use ser (es verde) to talk about essential characteristics or permanent characteristics of a noun (like the colour or type of apple) and estar (está verde) to talk about conditions or temporary states (it is unripe now, but it won't be in a few days). Use ser to say what something is. Use estar to say how something is:

es tranquilo – he is naturally quiet

está tranquilo – he is quiet at the moment

Both verbs are irregular in most tenses and the only way to conjugate them correctly is by memorising them.

USE SER

- to talk about permanent, inherent or essential qualities: Rusia es enorme
- to express the time, day and date: es la una, es lunes, es veintiuno de enero
- to talk about the place of origin: es de España, soy de Marruecos
- to talk about your job or occupation: soy profesor, somos payasos
- to express nationality: son franceses, somos españolas
- to express what material something is made of: Pinocho es de madera
- to express possession: es mío
- to express the relationship between people: es mi tía
- to express religious or political affiliation: soy comunista
- to say where an event is taking place: la reunión es en el ayuntamiento
- in impersonal expressions: es importante entender esto

USE ESTAR

- to talk about location (both permanent and temporary): Francia está en Europa, Miguel está en Francia
- to express a state or a condition: estoy enfermo, la comida está fría, estoy sordo
- with progressive (continuous) tenses: estoy trabajando, no estás escuchando
- with some idiomatic expressions: estoy de acuerdo, estoy de pie, está vivo (and, bizarrely) está muerto.

When the verb to be in English is followed by a noun, in Spanish we always use ser:
es domingo, es carpintero, es (mucho) dinero

When the verb to be is followed by an adjective, use ser to talk about an essential or permanent characteristic, and estar for a temporary condition:

El gazacho es frío

La sopa está fría

Sometimes both can be used, but the meaning of the sentence is altered:

Es muy alto – He is very tall

Está muy alto – He is very tall (for his age)

Es muy guapo – He is good looking

Está muy guapo – He is looking good (today, because of his clothes, or his hair or his particular look)

Es muy viejo – He is very old

Está muy viejo – He is looking old

Es listo – He is clever

Está listo – He is ready

AHORA PRACTICA:

A. Choose the correct translation.

1. She is bored: Ella es aburrida / Ella está aburrida.
2. He is boring: Él es aburrido / Él está aburrido.
3. She is happy. (personality): Ella es alegre / Ella está alegre.
4. She is happy. (mood): Ella es alegre / Ella está alegre.
5. They are tired: Ellos son cansados / Ellos están cansados.
6. They are tiresome: Ellos son cansados / Ellos están cansados.
7. The boys are big: Los chicos son grandes / Los chicos están grandes.
8. The boys are big for their age: Los chicos son grandes / Los chicos están grandes.
9. Maria is amusing: María es divertida / María está divertida.
10. Paco is lively: Paco es vivo / Paco está vivo.

14. The apple is unripe: La manzana es verde / La manzana está verde.

18. CONJUGATING VERBS:

In Spanish, there are three categories of verbs. The category is determined by the last two letters of the infinitive. The infinitive is the “to” form of the verb, (to speak, to eat, to live, etc; it is the form you find in the dictionary). In Spanish, all infinitives end in one of three possible endings: -ar, -er, or -ir:

-ar verbs
hablar (to speak)

-er verbs
comer (to eat)

-ir verbs
vivir (to live)

Spanish infinitives are divided into two parts: the ending and the stem (also called radical). The ending is the last two letters (-ar, -er, or –ir). The stem is everything that's left after you remove the ending.

habl + ar = hablar
com + er = comer
viv + ir = vivir

To conjugate a verb means to change the ending of the infinitive so that it agrees with the different possible subjects; this happens in English as well, but it is an awful lot more common and more complicated in Spanish:

to speak
I speak you speak
he speaks
she speaks
we speak
you-all speak
they speak

Before you can conjugate verbs in Spanish, you must memorize the following subject pronouns in this order:

yo (I) tú (you - informal) él (he) / ella (she) / usted (you - formal) nosotros/nosotras (we) vosotros/vosotras (you-all - informal) ellos/ellas (they) / ustedes (you-all formal)

(You might find the following mnemonic useful: If you're happy wiggle your tictacs)

Some verbs are regular, which means they are conjugated following a certain pattern. Other verbs (unfortunately some of the most commonly used) are irregular, which means that they don't follow the pattern, and you will have to learn them separately. Verbs can be regular in one tense and irregular in other tenses. In fact, some tenses, such as the Future Simple or the Imperfect have very few irregular verbs.

19. PRESENT TENSE

We use the present tense in Spanish in two main contexts:

- to talk about what is happening at the time of speaking: "Ahora hablo yo"
- to talk about events which happen regularly: "Los lunes visito a mis abuelos"

19 a. REGULAR VERBS

Many Spanish verbs are completely regular, meaning that they follow a specific pattern of conjugation.

In order to conjugate regular verbs in the present tense, follow these two simple steps:
drop the "ar", "er" or "ir" endings off the infinitive replace with the following endings:

	AR	ER	IR
Yo (I)	o	o	o
Tú (you)	as	es	es
Él/ella (he/she)	a	e	e
Nosotros (we)	amos	emos	imos
Vosotros (you)	áis	éis	ís
Ellos (they)	an	en	en

N.B. – It is important to remember the accents in verb endings, as missing them could change the meaning of the verb

Ejemplos:

to work – trabajar

you work – trabajar > trabaj- > trabajas

to eat – comer

I eat – comer > com- > como

to live – vivir

we live – vivir > viv- > vivimos

In Spanish the subject pronouns are not always required. This is because the verb endings already indicate who is performing the action.

Hablo español. (Yo is not necessary.) I speak Spanish.

Comemos carne. (Nosotros is not necessary.) We eat meat.

Vives en México. (Tú is not necessary.) You live in Mexico.

Sometimes, however, they are used for emphasis or for clarification purposes.

AHORA PRACTICA:

a. Choose the correct translation.

1. bebo: I drink / you drink
2. bebemos: you-all drink / we drink
3. crees: I believe / you believe
4. creéis: you-all believe / we believe

b. Translate:

- | | |
|--------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1. you talk (hablar) | 4. we drink (beber) |
| 2. you-all talk (hablar) | 5. you live (vivir) |
| 3. I drink (beber) | 6. you-all live (vivir) |

c. Write the correct ending (use hablar, comer, vivir). Then translate them into English.

- | | |
|-----------------------|------------------------|
| 1. nosotros/as habl__ | 7. ustedes viv__ |
| 2. ustedes habl__ | 8. él/ella habl __ |
| 3. yo com__ | 9. ellos/ellas habl __ |
| 4. usted com __ | 10. tú com __ |
| 5. usted viv__ | 11. ellos/ellas com __ |
| 6. nosotros/as viv__ | 12. tú viv __ |

d. Translate into Spanish:

- | | |
|------------------|--------------------------|
| 1. we rent | 12. I read |
| 2. you-all spend | 13. we sell |
| 3. she wears | 14. you-all break |
| 4. I ask | 15. you (formal) promise |
| 5. they forget | 16. you-all (formal) eat |
| 6. you speak | 17. she believes |
| 7. they wash | 18. I open |
| 8. I return | 19. we cover |
| 9. he pays | 20. they decide |
| 10. you win | 21. he unites |
| 11. he signs | 22. you omit |

N.B. - All verbs in this activity are regular ar, er or ir verbs. You can find the infinitives for all of them on the previous page. Alternatively, use the dictionary to find the infinitive of the verbs, and apply the patterns we have seen.

19b. PRESENT TENSE: IRREGULAR VERBS

Unfortunately, some of the most common verbs in Spanish are irregular, which means that they don't follow the regular patterns learnt in the previous section and you will have to learn them separately:

SUJETO	ESTAR (to be)	SER (to be)	TENER (to have)	VENIR (to come)	DAR (to give)	IR (to go)
yo	estoy	soy	tengo	vengo	doy	voy
tú	estás	eres	tienes	vienes	das	vas
él / ella	está	es	tiene	viene	da	va
nosotros	estamos	somos	tenemos	venimos	damos	vamos
vosotros	estáis	sois	tenéis	venís	dais	vais
ellos	están	son	tienen	vienen	dan	van

The following verbs are irregular in the present tense in the first person only:

caer (to fall): yo caigo

traer (to bring): yo traigo

caber (to fit): yo quepo

hacer (to do, make): yo hago

poner (to put, place): yo pongo

saber (to know something): yo sé

salir (to leave): yo salgo

valer (to be worth): yo valgo

ver (to see): yo veo

Some verbs require spelling changes in certain forms:

- Verbs that end in -ger and -gir change the g to j in the yo form:
coger – cojo
dirigir – dirijo
- Verbs that end in -guir change the gu to g in the yo form:
perseguir – persigo
conseguir – consigo
- Verbs that end in a consonant + -cer or -cir change the c to z in the yo form:
convencer – convenzo
ejercer – ejerzo
- Verbs that end in a vowel + -cer or -cir add z before the c in the yo form:
conducir – conduzco
aparecer – aparezco
- Verbs that end in -uir (not guir) add y before o, e, and a:
atribuir – atribuyo
huir - huyo

PRACTICA:

a. Fill in the gaps with the right form of "estar", "ir" or "dar":

21. yo cao

31. tú atribues

22. yo dirigo

32. ella hue

19 c. STEM-CHANGING VERBS (RADICAL CHANGING VERBS)

There is a very specific group of irregular verbs called stem-changing (or radical-changing) verbs. Differently from other irregular verbs, it is not the ending that changes when we conjugate them, but rather the stem. In the present tense, there are four groups of stem-changing verbs:

- o:ue (this means that an o in the stem changes into ue when you conjugate them)
- u:ue
- e:ie
- e:i

Ejemplos:

jugar: juego, juegas, juega, jugamos, jugáis, juegan

contar: cuento, cuentas, cuenta, contamos, contáis, cuentan

perder: pierdo, pierdes, pierde, perdemos, perdéis, pierden

cerrar: cierro, cierras, cierra, cerramos, cerráis, cierran

Note that the radical of the nosotros and vosotros forms do not change.

almorzar – to have lunch	morir – to die	aprobar – to approve / to pass mostrar – to show	demostrar – to prove	colgar – to hang

19 d. REFLEXIVE VERBS

A verb is reflexive when the subject and the object of the verb are the same:

I wash myself (reflexive)

I wash the car (not reflexive)

I call myself Diego (reflexive)

I call my mum every evening (not reflexive)

I dress myself (reflexive)

I dress my kids in the school uniform) (not reflexive)

In Spanish, the pronoun -se is added to the infinitive of reflexive verbs:

llamarse

dormirse

The most common reflexive verb, or at least the one we all learn first is of course llamarse:

Me llamo Diego – I call myself Diego

When conjugating reflexive verbs, as well as changing the ending (and taking into account all other irregularities), you have to add a reflexive pronoun at the beginning of the verb:

me – myself

te – yourself

se – himself, herself, yourself formal nos – ourselves

os – yourselves

se – themselves, yourselves formal

Ejemplos:

me llamo – I call myself

te lavas – you wash yourself

se despierta – he/she wakes (him/herself) up nos levantamos – we lift ourselves (we get up)

os aburrís – you bore yourselves (you get bored)

se casan – they marry themselves (in this case, each other!)

Sometimes we make verbs reflexive to emphasise who is performing the action:

me como un bocata todos los días – I eat a sandwich every day.

Normally, reflexive pronouns precede the verb. However, when the sentence has two verbs (usually one of them is an infinitive) the reflexive pronoun can go before the conjugated verb or attached at the end of the infinitive:

María puede lavarse ahora / María se puede lavar ahora (María can wash herself now)

Acabo de acostarme / Me acabo de acostar (I have just gone to bed)

Some verbs change their meaning when turned reflexive:

aburrir – to bore

aburrirse – to get bored

acordar – to agree

acordarse – to remember

despedir – to fire

despedirse – to say goodbye

ir – to go

irse – to leave

negar – to deny negarse – to refuse parecer – to seem parecerse – to look like poner – to put ponerse – to put on probar – to try probarse – to try on quitar – to take away

quitarse – to take off (clothes)

Some verbs are always reflexive:

arrepentirse – to regret

atreverse a – to dare

darse cuenta de – to realise quejarse – to complain

suicidarse – to commit suicide

PRACTICA:

A. Choose the correct translation.

1. I wash the car: Lavo el coche / Me lavo el coche.
2. I take a bath: Me baño / Yo baño.
3. Juan goes to bed at ten: Juan se acuesta a las diez / Juan acuesta a las diez.

B. Circle the right reflexive pronoun.

1. You take a shower: Tú me te se nos os se duchas.
2. Maria washes her hair: María me te se nos os se lava el pelo.
3. You-all wake up: Ustedes me te se nos os se despiertan.
4. We brush our teeth: Nosotros me te se nos os se cepillamos los dientes.
5. She gets dressed: Ella me te se nos os se viste.

C. Write the correct form of the verb.

1. María _____ el pelo. (lavarse)
2. Nos _____ (ducharse)
3. Ellos _____ los dientes. (cepillarse)
4. Yo _____ las piernas. (afeitarse)
5. Los niños _____. (dormirse - stem changing o:ue)
6. Las chicas _____. (vestirse - stem changing e:i)

D. Write the word or words necessary to form an equivalent sentence.

1. Nos preferimos lavar con champú: Preferimos _____ con champú.
2. Tú puedes dormirte: Te _____ dormir.
3. Juan se tiene que duchar: Juan _____ ducharse.
4. Nos tenemos que duchar esta noche: Nosotros _____ ducharnos esta noche.
5. Te puedes ir: Tú puedes _____.
6. Me tengo que acostar: Tengo que _____.

E. Change the verb ending to agree with the subject of the sentence.

2. Leemos el periódico después de _____. (levantarse)
3. En vez de _____, voy a estudiar español. (acostarse)
4. Después de _____. las botas, María entra el apartamento. (quitarse)
5. La familia cena después de _____. (sentarse)
6. Después de _____, las chicas se miran en el espejo. (vestirse)

19 e. GUSTAR

"Gustar" is a particularly difficult verb to use in Spanish because using it requires use of the indirect object pronouns.

Me gusta el cuarto.

Nos gustan los libros.

In English, the following sentences are correct:

I like the room. (I – subject, like = verb, the room = direct object)

We like the books. (We = subject, like = verb, the books = direct object)

In English, it is correct to construct a sentence that has the subject "liking" a direct object. In Spanish, this never occurs. In Spanish, a different construction is used, as "gustar" should be translated as "to please" rather than "to like":

English: I like the room.

Spanish: The room pleases me.

English: We like the books.

Spanish: The books please us.

In English, the subject of the sentence is the person who likes (I, we) while in Spanish the subject of the sentence is the object that is liked (room, books).

The room pleases me.

Subject: The room

I like the room.

Subject: I

Finally notice that while the English sentence has a direct object, the Spanish sentence has an indirect object:

The room pleases me.

me = Indirect Object

room = Direct Object

Since the subject of the sentence must be either singular (book) or plural (books), the only forms of gustar you will normally use are "gusta" (he/she it pleases) and "gustan" (they please). In order to express who is doing the liking, you will use the indirect object pronouns, rather than the verb endings.

Me gusta(n) – I like

Te gusta(n) – you like

Le gusta(n) – he/she/you formal like

Nos gusta(n) – we like

Os gusta(n) – you like (plural)

Les gusta(n) – they like

Remember, gustar becomes either gusta or gustan, depending upon whether what is liked is singular or plural. It has nothing to do with which IO pronoun is used.

What is liked is singular - use gusta

What is liked is plural - use gustan

Here are some examples::

Singular	Plural
Me gusta la novela.	Me gustan las pipas.
Te gusta el inglés.	Te gustan los caramelos.
Le gusta la sopa.	Le gustan las cartas.
Nos gusta el hotel.	Nos gustan los hoteles.
Os gusta la comida.	Os gustan las comidas.
Les gusta el chocolate.	Les gustan los relojes.

For purposes of clarification or emphasis, the sentence will often begin with a prepositional phrase that clarifies just who the IO pronoun refers to.

- A él le gusta esa novela.
- A Juan le gusta el francés.
- A ella le gusta la natación.
- A María le gusta la física.
- A usted le gusta el dinero.
- A Juan le gusta el ordenador.
- A mí me gusta el café.
- A nosotros no nos gusta la gramática.

PRACTICA:

a. Use the verb GUSTAR with the appropriate indirect object pronoun. Be as complete as possible.

Ejemplo: They like the class (the class is pleasing to them): (A ellas) les gusta la clase

1. Julio likes peanuts: _____ los cacahuetes.

2. We like the circus: _____ el circo.

3. I like to read: _____ leer.

4. Who likes balloons?: _____ los globos?

5. You like to see movies: _____ ver películas. (use "tú")

6. They like garlic: _____ el ajo.

7. My mother likes maths: _____ las matemáticas.

8. Nobody likes war: _____ la guerra.

b. Fill in the table.

4. A mí _____ los borrachos en la calle.

20. PRETERITE

The preterite tense is one of the two main tenses we use to talk about the past. It is used in the following contexts:

- to refer to actions that occurred at a fixed point in time:

I called at 1:00 - Llamé a la una

- to refer to actions in the past that were performed a specific number of times:

I called you twice. - Te llamé dos veces.

- to refer to actions that occurred during a specific enclosed period of time:

He lived there for 5 years - Él vivió allí por cinco años.

- for actions that are part of a chain of events:

I bought a hat, sat down on a bench and fell asleep - Compré un sombrero, me senté en un banco y me dormí.

- for sudden changes of mood, feelings or opinions:

At that moment, I was not afraid - En ese momento, no tuve miedo.

The preterite is frequently associated with phrases that pinpoint a particular occasion or specific time frame:

ayer (yesterday)

ayer por la mañana (yesterday morning)

ayer por la tarde (yesterday afternoon)

anteayer (the day before yesterday)

anoche (last night)

desde el primer momento (from the first moment)

después (afterwards)

durante dos siglos (for two centuries)

el año pasado (last year)

el lunes por la noche (Monday night)

el mes pasado (last month)

el otro día (the other day)

en ese momento (at that moment)

entonces (then)

esta mañana (this morning)

esta tarde (this afternoon)

hace dos días, años (two days, years ago)

la semana pasada (last week)

If the action is in the past, and you can determine precisely when it occurred, or how many times it occurred, then you will use the preterite.

To conjugate regular -ar, -er and -ir verbs in the preterite, simply drop the ending of the infinitive and add one of the following:

AR	ER	IR
é	í	í
aste	iste	iste
ó	ió	ió
amos	imos	imos
asteis	isteis	isteis
aron	ieron	ieron

Notice that the -er and -ir endings are the same.

Here are all three regular preterite verb forms together:

HABLAR	COMER	VIVIR
hablé	comí	viví
hablaste	comiste	viviste
habló	comió	vivió
hablamos	comimos	vivimos
hablasteis	comisteis	vivisteis
hablaron	comieron	vivieron

NOTE: the nosotros forms for -ar and -ir verbs are the same in both preterite and present tenses: hablamos, vivimos.

IRREGULAR VERBS

Unfortunately, a number of verbs are irregular in the preterite and you'll need to learn them separately. Some of the most common ones are:

SUJETO	SER	IR	HACER	TENER
yo (I)	fui	fui	hice	tuve
tú (you)	fuiste	fuiste	hiciste	tuviste
él / ella (he/she)	fue	fue	hizo	tuvo
nosotros (we)	fuimos	fuimos	hicimos	tuvimos
vosotros (you lot)	fuisteis	fuisteis	hicisteis	tuvisteis
ellos (they)	fueron	fueron	hicieron	tuvieron

It is not a mistake, SER and IR are the same in the preterite.

SUJETO	TRAER	DAR	DECIR	ESTAR
yo (I)	traje	di	dije	estuve
tú (you)	trajiste	diste	dijiste	estuviste
él / ella (he/she)	trajo	dio	dijo	estuvo
nosotros (we)	trajimos	dimos	dijimos	estuvimos
vosotros (you lot)	trajisteis	disteis	dijisteis	estuvisteis
ellos (they)	trajeron	dieron	dijeron	estuvieron

Atraer, detraer, distraer, extraer, maltraer, retraer, sustraer are all conjugated like "traer"

Verbs that end in "ucir" are conjugated as follows:

conduje
condujiste condujo condujimos condujisteis condujeron

Verbs that follow this pattern include conducir, deducir, inducir, introducir, reducir, traducir.

A number of verbs that are irregular in the preterite follow a particular pattern. While their stems change, they all take the following endings:

-e
-iste
-o
-imos
-isteis
-ieron

Here are the verbs, along with their corresponding stem changes:

INFINITIVE	STEM CHANGE
andar	anduv
estar	estuv
tener	tuv
caber	cup
haber	hub
poder	pud
poner	pus
saber	sup
hacer	hic
querer	quis
venir	vin-

Here are two examples of how this pattern is applied:

ESTAR (ESTUV-)	SABER (SUP-)
estuve	supe
estuviste	supiste
estuvo	supo
estuvimos	supimos
estuvisteis	supisteis
estuvieron	supieron

STEM CHANGING VERBS IN THE PRETERITE:

-ar and -er verbs that change their stem in the present tense do not change in the preterite. They are conjugated just like other regular preterite verbs.

-ir verbs that change their stem in the present tense do change in the preterite, but in a different way. They change e:i and o:u in the third person, singular and plural:

Preferir: preferí, preferiste, prefirió, preferimos, preferisteis, prefirieron

SPELLING CHANGES:

In order to preserve the sound of the infinitive, a number of verbs change THEIR spelling in the preterite tense.

The following changes occur in the “yo” form only:

Verbs that end in -gar change g to gu (jugar: jugué)

Verbs that end in -car change c to qu (buscar: busqué)

Verbs that end in -zar change z to c (empezar: empecé)

Other “gar” verbs: colgar, jugar, llegar, pagar, plegar, regar, rogar, tragar, vagar.

Other “car” verbs: aparcar, buscar, clarificar, clasificar, destacar, empacar, justificar, practicar, sacar, tocar.

Other “zar” verbs: almorzar, autorizar, cazar, comenzar, cruzar, empezar, forzar, organizar, simbolizar, tropezarse.

For verbs that end in -aer, -eer, -oír, and -oer, the él/ella/usted forms use the ending “yó” (rather than ió) and the third person plural uses the ending “yeron” (rather than ieron). The remaining forms gain a written accent over the letter “i.”

creer

creí

creíste

creyó

creímos

creísteis

creyeron

(other verbs like this: caer, leer, oír, poseer, proveer, traer, distraer)

Verbs that end in -uir change in the same way, but the written accent over the letter “i” only occurs in the yo form:

huir: huí, huiste, huyó, huimos, huisteis, huyeron

(Other “uir” verbs: construir, contribuir, destruir, fluir, incluir, influir)

AHORA PRACTICA:

a. Fill in the gaps with the right form of the verb in brackets. Use only the preterite. N.B. – the verbs in italics are irregular.

1. Hace unos años mi familia y yo _____ a Cuba. (ir)
2. Mis padres _____ un sábado, pero yo _____ tres días más tarde. (llegar, viajar)
3. Durante mis vacaciones _____ muchos monumentos históricos e _____ muchos deportes acuáticos, porque me encantan. (visitar, hacer)

5. Un día _____ un delfín en la playa (ver)
6. Durante las vacaciones _____ un libro de aventuras, pero no _____ mucho. (leer, gustar)
7. _____ a dar un paseo y _____ varias horas. (ir, andar)
8. Sin embargo, no _____ visitar La Habana. (poder)

15. _____ en una casa cerca de la capital, y allí _____ unos años, hasta que _____ a España hace unos meses. (instalarse, vivir, regresar)

21. IMPERFECT

The imperfect is, together with the preterite, one of the main two tenses that we use to refer to the past. It used for past actions that are not seen as completed. Use of the imperfect tense implies that the past action did not have a definite beginning or a definite end (or we don't know it). We use it in the following contexts:

- for actions in the past that were repeated habitually.

Almorzábamos juntos todos los días - We used to have lunch together every day.

Las señoritas siempre charlaban por las mañanas - The ladies would always chat in the mornings

- for actions in the past that "set the stage" for another action.

Yo leía cuando entró mi papá - I was reading when my dad entered. (note that "entered" is preterite).

- to tell the time and to state one's age at some point in the past.

Eran las siete de la noche - It was seven o'clock at night.

La niña tenía cinco años - The little girl was five years old.

- for ongoing actions in the past

El teléfono sonaba sin parar – The phone was ringing non-stop

La niña lloraba desconsolada – The little girl kept crying

- to describe people, places and things in the past

Era alta y delgada, y tenía el pelo rubio – She was tall and thin, and she had blond hair

Había aproximadamente 100 personas - There were approximately 100 people.

- to talk about moods, feelings in the past:

Estaba muy enfadado – I was really angry

Tenía un dolor de cabeza horrible – I had a horrible headache

The imperfect is frequently associated with time phrases that describe the frequency of past actions.

a menudo often

a veces sometimes

cada día every day

cada año every year

con frecuencia frequently

de vez en cuando from time to time

en aquella época at that time

frecuentemente frequently

generalmente usually

muchas veces many times

mucho a lot

nunca never

por un rato for a while siempre always tantas veces so many times todas las semanas every week todos los días every day
todo el tiempo all the time
varias veces several times

In order to conjugate regular verbs in the imperfect, drop the ar, er or ir ending of the infinitive and add the following endings:

-ar verbs	-er verbs, -ir verbs
aba	ía
abas	ías
aba	ía
ábamos	íamos
abais	íais
aban	ían

Examples:

trabajar	vivir
trabajaba	vivía
trabajabas	vivías
trabajaba	vivía
trabajábamos	vivíamos
trabajabais	vivíais
trabajaban	vivían

Good news! Only three irregular verbs in the imperfect:

ser: era, eras, era, éramos, erais, eran

ir: iba, ibas, iba, íbamos, ibais, iban

ver: veía, veías, veía, veíamos, veíais, veían

AHORA PRACTICA:

a. Complete the following sentences using the right form of the imperfect for the verb in brackets; then translate into English.

1. Todos los días _____ a mi abuela. (yo, visitar):

2. _____ una camisa diferente todos los días (él, llevar).

3. Carmen _____ la cena cuando llamaron a la puerta (preparar).

4. Juan _____ cinco kilómetros casi todas las mañanas(correr).

5 . Ella _____ al chico que conoció durante las vacaciones (amar).

6. Sus dientes _____ muchísimo (doler).

7. Ellos _____ agotados (estar).

8. Yo _____ eso (saber).

9. Ellos _____ más comida (querer).

10. Él _____ en aquel día (pensar).

11. La casa _____ una ruina (ser).

12. El cielo _____ despejado (estar).

13. La maleta _____ pesada (ser).

14. La fábrica _____ lleno de máquinas (estar).

21. PRETERITE VS IMPERFECT:

Spanish has two past tenses: preterite and imperfect. Most verbs can be put into either tense, depending upon the meaning.

- The preterite is used for completed actions in the past. Use of the preterite tense implies that the past action had a definite beginning and definite end (whether this is stated or not):

Eva habló de la una hasta las tres.

Eva spoke from one until three (clear beginning and end).

Eva habló una hora.

Eva spoke for one hour (clear beginning and end, even though they are not stated)

- The imperfect is used for ongoing and regular actions in the past that are not seen as completed. Use of the imperfect tense implies that the past action did not have a definite beginning or a definite end.

Las chicas hablaban en inglés.

The girls used to speak in English.

(no definite beginning or end)

The following time phrases are often used with the preterite:

ayer - yesterday

la semana pasada - last week

anoche - last night

el mes pasado - last month

el otro día - the other day

el año pasado - last year

entonces - then

hace dos días, años - two days, years ago

esta mañana - this morning

ayer por la mañana - yesterday morning

The following time phrases are often used with the imperfect:

a menudo - often

generalmente - usually

a veces - sometimes

muchas veces - many times

cada día - every day

siempre - always

cada año - every year

todo el tiempo - all the time

de vez en cuando - from time to time

varias veces - several times

nunca – never

Usually, when telling a story in the past, we use the preterite to talk about the actions and the imperfect to set the scene, describe the characters, places and situations:

“Juan salió de casa. Eran las diez de la mañana y hacía un día estupendo. Se montó en el coche y condujo hasta el fin de la calle. Todo parecía muy tranquilo, hasta que de repente oyó un ruido ensordecedor. Paró el coche, pues se sentía sorprendido, y vio que la gente en la calle también estaba asustada”

Additionally, we use the preterite to refer to one action (or a series of actions) that take place while a different action was taking place. For this ongoing action we use the imperfect:

“El teléfono sonó mientras me duchaba” – The phone rang while I was showering

“Cuando llegué a casa, el teléfono sonaba” – When I got home the phone was ringing

Some verbs actually change meaning, depending upon whether they are used in the preterite or the imperfect:

conocer

Conocí a Juan hace cinco años - I met Juan five years ago.

(completed action)

En aquella época conocíamos muy bien la ciudad. At that time we knew the city very well.

(no definite beginning or end)

querer

María quiso comprar la casa - Maria tried to buy the house.

Juan quería comprar la casa - Juan wanted to buy the house.

no querer

María no quiso comprar la casa - Maria refused to buy the house.

Juan no quería comprar la casa - Juan did not want to buy the house.

saber

María lo supo ayer - Maria found out yesterday.

Juan sabía que María venía - Juan knew that Maria was coming.

poder

María pudo levantar la mesa - Maria succeeded in lifting the table.

Juan podía participar en la manifestación - Juan was able to participate in the demonstration.

23. PRESENT PERFECT

The present perfect tense is frequently used for past actions that continue into the present, or continue to affect the present:

He estado dos semanas en Madrid - I have been in Madrid for two weeks

Diego ha sido mi amigo por veinte años - Diego has been my friend for 20 years.

The present perfect, both in Spanish and in English, is a compound tense. This means that you actually have to use two verbs to conjugate it.

In English, the present perfect is formed by combining the verb "to have" with the "-ed" form of another verb (or the equivalent form if it is an irregular verb):

I have studied.

She has finished.

He has written a letter to María.

We have been stranded for six days.

We refer to the verb "to have" as the auxiliary verb, and the "-ed" form (or irregular form) is called the past participle of the main verb.

Because the present perfect is a compound tense, both verbs are always required:

I have studied (main verb: studied ; auxiliary verb: have)

He has written a letter to María. (main verb: written ; auxiliary verb: has)

We have been stranded for six days. (main verb: been ; auxiliary verb: have)

In Spanish, the present present perfect is formed by using the present tense of the "haber" as the auxiliary verb and the past participle of the main verb.

HABER:

Haber is a funny verb, as it doesn't really mean anything on its own. We only ever use it as an auxiliary verb in perfect tenses. It is conjugated as follows:

he (I have)

has (you have)

ha (he/she has) hemos (we have) habéis (you all have) han (they have)

THE PAST PARTICIPLE:

To form the past participle of regular verbs, simply drop the infinitive ending (-ar, -er, -ir) and add -ado (for -ar verbs) or -ido (for -er, -ir verbs).

hablar - ar + ado = hablado

comer - er + ido = comido

vivir - ir + ido = vivido

As usual, some of the most common verbs have irregular past participles:

abrir (to open) - abierto (open) cubrir (to cover) - cubierto (covered) decir (to say) - dicho (said)

escribir (to write) - escrito (written) freír (to fry) - frito (fried) hacer (to do) - hecho (done)

morir (to die) - muerto (dead) poner (to put) - puesto (put) resolver (to resolve) - resuelto (resolved)

romper (to break) - roto (broken)

ver (to see) - visto (seen) volver (to return) - vuelto (returned)

As well as part of the perfect tenses, the past participle can also be used as an adjective, in which case it is subject to the same rules about gender and number agreement as other adjectives:

"La puerta está cerrada" "Juan tiene los ojos cerrados"

USING THE PRESENT PERFECT:

Most of the time, the present perfect in Spanish is used in the same contexts as it is in English. The following examples all use the past participle for the verb "comer."

He comido I have eaten.

Has comido. You have eaten.

Ha comido. He has eaten.

Hemos comido. We have eaten.

Habéis comido. You-all have eaten.

Han comido. They have eaten.

The present perfect tense is often used with the adverb "ya".

Ya han comido.

They have already eaten.

Ya he limpiado la casa.

I have already cleaned the house.

Important rule: differently from English, the auxiliary verb and the past participle are never separated.

To make the sentence negative, add the word "no" before the conjugated form of haber:

No he comido.

I have not eaten.

No has comido.

You have not eaten.

The same rule applies when you use "nunca" instead of "no": you never separate the auxiliary verb and the past participle:

Nunca ha comido pescado / No ha comido pescado nunca

He has never eaten fish

Nunca hemos comido en ese restaurante.

We have never eaten in that restaurant.

(Be careful, because this is one of the most common mistakes English speakers make when learning Spanish)

Object pronouns are placed immediately before the auxiliary verb.

Carlos le ha regalado un iPad a su hermana.

Carlos has given her an iPad (to his sister).

To make this sentence negative, the word "no" is placed before the indirect object pronoun (le).

Carlos no le ha regalado un iPad a su hermana.

Carlos has not given an iPad to his sister.

With reflexive verbs, the reflexive pronoun is placed immediately before the auxiliary verb, and if the sentence is negative, the word "no" is placed before the reflexive pronoun:

(No) Me he levantado a las diez - I have (not) got up at ten.

In order to turn a statement into a question in Spanish we usually just add question marks:

Has hecho los deberes > ¿Has hecho los deberes?

However, with the Present perfect we often reverse the order and say the verb before the subject:

Carlos ha llegado > ¿Ha llegado Carlos?

Pedro me ha escrito > ¿Me ha escrito Pedro?

Be careful, because in Spanish we never separate the auxiliary verb and the past participle, but in English you do: Has Pedro written to me?

Here are the same sentences in negative form. Notice how the auxiliary verb and the past participle are not separated:

¿No ha llegado Carlos?

¿No me ha escrito Pedro?

PRACTICA:

A. Fill in the gaps with the correct conjugation of the verb haber.

1. you (tú) have tried: _____ intentado
2. Luis has eaten: _____ comido
3. we have not read: _____ leído
4. you-all (vosotros) have seen: _____ visto
5. you-all (ustedes) have said: _____ dicho
6. they have left: _____ ido (infinitive irse)
7. Juan and Maria have been: _____ estado
8. I have forgotten: _____ olvidado
9. we have listened to: _____ escuchado
10. she has washed herself: _____ lavado

B. Complete the following sentences with the past participle of the verb in brackets, then translate the sentences into English:

1. ¿Han _____ ya los trabajadores? (salir)
2. Yo he _____ la factura. (pagar)
3. Tú has _____ con tu padre. (hablar)
4. Román ha _____ aquí más de dos horas. (estar)
5. ¿No has _____ nada todavía? (comer)
6. ¿Por qué no han _____ Uds. la ventana? (abrir)
7. El niño ha _____ la basura. (sacar)
8. La chica ha _____ con su novio (romper)
9. Ellos han _____. (llegar)
10. Las mujeres han _____ de compras. (ir)

C. Translate into English:

1. ¿Adónde has ido?
2. Nunca hemos estado en China.
3. No sé qué has dicho, no te he oído bien.
4. Esta mañana me he levantado un poco tarde, y se me ha escapado el autobús. (escaparse - to miss)
5. Ya he terminado.

24. THE PAST PERFECT (OR “PLUPERFECT”)

The past perfect tense is used when a past action was completed prior to another past action. It is easier to use than that sounds, as it is used in pretty much the same way in Spanish as it is in English. The English Past Perfect is “I had done”.

Time phrases such as "ya", "antes", "nunca", "todavía" and "después" are often used with this tense.

Cuando llegaron mis padres, ya habían comido - When my parents arrived, they had already eaten.

Yo ya había comido antes de llamarles - I already had eaten before calling them.

In English, the past perfect is formed by combining the past tense of the auxiliary verb "to have" (had) with the past participle:

I had studied for the exam, but it was too hard

We had been waiting for years.

Because the past perfect is a compound tense, two verbs are always required: the main verb and the auxiliary verb:

I had studied (main verb: studied ; auxiliary verb: had)

In Spanish, the past perfect tense is formed by using the imperfect tense of the auxiliary verb "haber" as the auxiliary verb and the past participle of the main verb:

The imperfect of haber is regular:

había – I had habías – you had había – he/she had habíamos – we had habíais – you lot had habían – they had

The following examples all use the past participle for the verb "vivir."

había vivido. I had lived.

habías vivido. You had lived.

había vivido. He had lived.

habíamos vivido. We had lived.

habíais vivido. You-all had lived.

habían vivido. They had lived.

As it is always the case with perfect tenses, the auxiliary verb and the past participle are never separated. To make the sentence negative, add the word "no" before the conjugated form of haber.

No había vivido en Madrid antes – He had not lived in Madrid before

The same rule applies when you use “nunca” instead of “no”: you never separate the auxiliary verb and the past participle:

Nunca había vivido en Madrid antes – He had never lived in Madrid before

Object pronouns are placed immediately before the auxiliary verb.

Pablo le había regalado un ipad a su hermana. Pablo had given an ipad to his sister.

With reflexive verbs, the reflexive pronoun is placed immediately before the auxiliary verb.

Me había levantado súper tarde. (past perfect)

Questions are formed in the same way as questions in the Present Perfect: either just add question marks or reverse the order of the subject and the verb. But NEVER separate the auxiliary verb haber and the past participle.

¿Habías hecho los deberes? – Had you done your homework?

¿Habían llegado ya las chicas? - Had the girls arrived yet?

¿Habías probado ya la comida? - Had you tried the food yet?

¿No habías terminado? – Had you not finished?

PRACTICA:

a. Fill in the gaps with the correct conjugation of the verb haber.

1. you (tú) had tried: _____ probado
2. Juan had finished: _____ terminado
3. I had read: _____ leído
4. you-all (vosotros) had seen: _____ visto
5. you-all (ustedes) had said: _____ dicho
6. they had left: _____ salido
7. His parents had been: _____ estado
8. I had not eaten much: _____ comido mucho
9. we had listened to: _____ escuchado
10. she had washed: _____ lavado

b. Complete the following sentences.

1. Cuando llegó Juan al restaurante sus padres ya _____ de comer. (terminar)
2. El político _____ bajar los impuestos. (prometer)
3. Mi hermana dejó la oficina cuando _____ la reunión. (terminar)
4. El padre _____ un buen hombre. (ser)
5. Le expliqué que el ladrón _____ por la ventana. (entrar)
6. La abuela le contó a su nieto cómo _____ durante la guerra. (sobrevivir)
7. Tu madre me dijo que tú _____ al centro. (ir)
8. Marta ya _____ la película el mes pasado pero tenía ganas de verla de nuevo. (ver)
9. El supervisor les _____ a sus empleados aumento de salario. (prometer)
10. El poeta le _____ a su mujer muchos poemas de amor. (escribir)

c. Translate the sentences in activity b into English.

25. FUTURE SIMPLE

The future simple in Spanish is used to tell what "will" happen, or what "shall" happen:

Iré a la playa el mes que viene - I will go to the beach next month.

The future tense is also used to express wonder or probability in the present state.

¿Quién llamará a estas horas? I wonder who is calling at this time?

Estará ya de camino. He is probably already on the way.

Sometimes for actions that will occur in the near future, we can use the present tense, but you must use an appropriate time phrase or the sentence will be confusing:

Esta noche voy al cine. Tonight I'm going to the movies.

Further in the future, use the future tense.

El año que viene iré a España. Next year I'm going to Spain.

There is not a clear-cut deadline after which you should use the future. If in doubt, use the future.

Regular verbs in the future tense are conjugated by adding the following endings to the infinitive form of the verb (regardless of whether the verb is an -ar, -er or -ir verb): -é, -ás, -á, -emos, -éis, -án.

hablaré

hablarás

hablará

hablaremos

hablaréis

hablarán

(NOTICE THAT YOU ADD THE ENDINGS TO THE INFINITIVE, WITHOUT DROPPING THE “AR”, “ER” AND “IR” ENDINGS)

There are twelve common verbs that are irregular in the future tense. Their endings are regular, but their stems change:

cabrer: cabré, cabrás, cabrá, cabremos, cabréis, cabrán poner: pondré, pondrás, ...

decir: diré...

haber: habré

salir: saldré

hacer: haré

poder: podré

tener: tendré

querer: querré

valer: valdré

saber: sabré

18. THE CONDITIONAL TENSE

The conditional is used to express probability, possibility, wonder or conjecture, and is usually translated as would, could, must have or probably.

El alumno dijo que estudiaría una hora más. - The student said that he would study one more hour.

Si trabajaras más ganarías más dinero – If you worked harder you would earn more money.

¿Qué hora sería? - What time could it have been?

Note: when "would" is used in the sense of a repeated action in the past (to mean "used to"): we used the imperfect instead:

When I was little I would visit my grandma everyday – Cuando era pequeño visitaba a mi abuela todos los días (never visitaría)

To conjugate regular -ar, -er and -ir verbs in the conditional, simply add one of the following to the infinitive (use the same endings for all verbs): ía, ías, ía, íamos, íais, ían

Here are all three regular conditional verb forms together:

hablar	comer	vivir
hablaría	comería	viviría
hablarías	comerías	vivirías
hablaría	comería	viviría
hablaríamos	comeríamos	viviríamos
hablaríais	comeríais	viviríais
hablarían	comerían	vivirían

The same twelve common verbs that are irregular in the future tense are also irregular in the conditional tense. Their endings are regular, but their stems change in the same way they change in the future tense.

caber cabría, cabrías, cabría, cabríamos, cabríais, cabrían

poner pondría

decir diría

haber habría

salir saldría

hacer haría

poder podría

tener tendría

querer querría

valer valdría

saber sabría

venir yendría

We also use the conditional to:

-express speculation about the past:

Aquél día correrían más de veinticinco kilómetros.

That day they must have run more than 25 kilometers.

- express the future from the perspective of the past:

Yo sabía que abrirían la tienda a las siete.

I knew that they would open the store at seven o'clock.

- express hypothetical actions or events which may or may not occur:

Sería interesante estudiar chino.

It would be interesting to study Chinese.

- indicate what would happen were it not for some certain specific circumstance:

Yo viajaría pero no tengo dinero.

I would travel but I don't have money.

- request something politely:

Por favor, ¿podría decirme a qué hora abre la gasolinera?

Could you please tell me what time the gas station opens?

- ask for advice:

¿Cuál compraría Ud.?

Which one would you buy?

- reported speech:

Juan dijo que terminaría el trabajo.

Juan said that he would finish the work.

- express an action which is contrary to fact (if clauses):

Si yo tuviera tiempo, iría al cine esta noche.

If I had time, I would go to the movies tonight.

10. Pensaba que hoy _____. (llover)

d. Translate the sentences in activity c.

27. THE IMPERATIVE (COMMANDS)

The imperative is used when ordering, telling or asking someone to do something. Spanish has both formal and an informal commands.

INFORMAL COMMANDS (TÚ, VOSOTROS, NOSOTROS)

TÚ:

The affirmative informal (tú) commands use the present indicative Ud. form:

Cuenta tu dinero.

Count your money.

Habla más despacito.

Speak more slowly.

The negative informal (tú) commands use the present subjunctive.

No cuentes tus dinero.

Don't count your money.

No hables tas despacito.

Don't speak so slowly.

The following eight verbs have irregular familiar commands in the affirmative:

decir - di

salir - sal

hacer - haz

ser - sé

ir - ve

tener - ten poner - pon

venir - ven

VOSOTROS:

The affirmative vosotros command is formed by simply replacing the final "r" of the infinitive with "d."

Comprad (vosotros) la comida. (You-all) Buy the food.

Haced (vosotros) los deberes. (You-all) Do the homework.

The negative vosotros commands use the present subjunctive forms.

No compréis (vosotros) la comida. (You-all) Don't buy the ring.

No hagáis (vosotros) los deberes. (You-all) Don't write the homework.

With affirmative commands using a reflexive verb, the final "d" of the verb form is dropped before adding the pronoun "os."

Sentad + os = Sentaos.

The only exception is the verb "irse" which retains the final "d."

¡Idos! - Go away! (This form is rarely used and the incorrect form "iros" is now accepted)

Verbs ending in "-ir" will require a written accent.

Vestid + os = Vestíos - Get dressed.

NOSOTROS:

Nosotros commands are used when the speaker is included, and are used to express the idea "let's + verb." To form these commands, use the nosotros form of the present subjunctive.

Comamos en ese restaurante. - Let's eat in that restaurant.

Contemos el dinero. - Let's count the money.

To form the negative command, place the word no before the same verb form (present subjunctive).

No comamos en ese restaurante. - Let's not eat in that restaurant.

No contemos el dinero. - Let's not count the money.

The only exception is the verb ir(se), which uses the present indicative for the affirmative command only.

¡Vamos!. - Let's go!

but

No vayamos a la tienda. - Let's not go to the store.

FORMAL COMMANDS (USTED, USTEDES)

The formal commands (both affirmative and negative) use the present subjunctive verb form:

hablar: hable (speak – singular, formal), no hable (don't speak - singular, formal) comer: coma (eat – singular, formal), no coma (don't eat - singular, formal) decir: digan (say – plural, formal), no digan (don't say - plural, formal)

As with the present subjunctive, the following verbs are irregular:

(dar) dé, den

(estar) esté, estén

(ir) vaya, vayan

(ser) sea, sean

(saber) sepa, sepan

ADDING OBJECT PRONOUNS TO THE IMPERATIVE

With all affirmative commands, the object pronouns are attached to the end of the imperative form of the verb.

Compra el libro (Buy the book) – Cómpralo (Buy it).

If both direct and indirect object pronouns are attached, the indirect object pronoun comes before the direct object pronoun.

cómpralo (Buy it) - cómpramelo (Buy it for me.)

Written accents are often needed when you add object pronouns to the imperative. In fact, if the command has more than one syllable, a written accent is required when one or more pronouns is added.

compre – cómprelos - cómpremelos

If the command has only one syllable, a written accent is only necessary when two pronouns are added.

haz - hazlo - házmelo

With all negative commands, the object pronouns come before the imperative form of the verb, and they follow the usual rules you apply to object pronouns:

No compres el anillo - Don't buy the ring.

No lo compres - Don't buy it.

If there are both direct and indirect object pronouns, the indirect object pronoun comes before the direct object pronoun.

No me lo compres - Don't buy it for me.

AHORA PRACTICA:

4. Add one liter of water. _____ un litro de agua. (añadir)

Ejemplo: 1. Abre la ventana - Abrid la ventana

28. PRESENT PROGRESSIVE (OR CONTINUOUS)

In English, the present progressive is formed by combining the verb "to be" with the present participle. (The present participle is merely the "-ing" form of a verb.)

I am studying.

I am singing

I am being myself

In English, present progressive can be used to describe what is happening now, or what will happen in the future.

I am studying now.

I am studying tonight.

In Spanish, the present progressive is only used to describe an action that is in the process of taking place. It is never used for future actions.

Estoy estudiando ahora (but never "~~Estoy estudiando esta noche~~"; use "voy a estudiar" instead)

Remember that in Spanish we have two verbs to say "to be"; the one we use to form the present progressive is estar, and you follow it with the present participle (see below how to form the present participle) of the main verb; simply conjugate the verb estar to agree with the subject of the sentence, and follow it with the present participle:

Juan está comiendo con sus padres - John is eating with his parents.

María y Carmen están hablando por teléfono - Mary and Carmen are speaking on the phone.

Estoy hablando - I am speaking.

Estoy pensando - I am thinking.

María está escribiendo una carta - Mary is writing a letter.

ESTAR: estoy, estás, está, estamos, estáis, están

PRESENT PARTICIPLE (also called GERUND):

To form the present participle of regular -ar verbs, add -ando to the stem of the verb.

hablar: hablando (hablar - ar + ando)

To form the present participle of regular -er and -ir verbs, add -iendo to the stem of the verb.

comer: comiendo (comer - er + iendo)

vivir: viviendo (vivir - ir + iendo)

To form the present participle of -ir stem changing verbs, change e:i and o:u in the stem, and then add -iendo to the stem of the verb.

dormir – durmiento, morir – muriendo, poder - pudiendo

Sometimes when forming the present participle it is necessary to change the spelling of a word to preserve the way it is pronounced. We call this an "orthographic" change. Here are some common examples:

caer - cayendo, creer - creyendo, huir - huyendo, ir - yendo, influir - influyendo
oír - oyendo, traer - trayendo, leer - leyendo, seguir - siguiendo

Remember, only use the present progressive for actions that are "in progress." Compare the uses of the present indicative with the uses of the present progressive.

Estudio español. (Present Indicative)

I study Spanish (these days, I am trying to learn the language).

Estoy estudiando español. (Present Progressive)

I am studying (right now, at this moment, as I speak) Spanish.

It is important to remember that you would never use the present progressive to talk about the immediate future ("We are going to Spain this summer"). Use the present progressive only for actions that are in progress. "Ir a + infinitive" is the easiest way to talk about the immediate future: Vamos a ir a España este verano.

N.B. - EVEN THOUGH AT THIS STAGE WE ARE ONLY GOING TO COVER THE PRESENT PROGRESSIVE, IT IS NOT THE ONLY PROGRESSIVE TENSE; CONJUGATE THE VERB ESTAR IN DIFFERENT TENSES TO OBTAIN DIFFERENT PROGRESSIVE TENSES:

estoy estudiando - I am studying estaba estudiando - I was studying

estuve estudiando - I was studying (for a determined amount of time)

he estado estudiando - I have been studying estaré estudiando - I will be studying estaría estudiando - I would be studying

AHORA PRACTICA:

A. Translate

2. I am writing a a text message.
3. The children are playing football in the park.
4. John and I are just about to arrive (“John and I are arriving”).

B. Write the present participle for each regular -ar, -er and -ir verb.

- | | |
|-------------|--------------|
| 1. trabajar | 9. acabar |

| 3. vivir | 11. irritar |
| 4. estudiar | 12. volar |
| 5. recordar | 13. tener |
| 6. escribir | 14. percibir |
| 7. olvidar | 15. prometer |
| 8. caminar | 16. recibir |

C. Write the present participle for the following -ir stem-changing verbs.

1. conseguir
2. pedir
3. repetir
4. seguir
5. sentir
6. servir
7. venir
8. dormir

D. Write the present participle for the following orthographic changing verbs.

1. caer
2. creer
3. leer
4. oír
5. construir
6. huir

29. THE SUBJUNCTIVE

The subjunctive is not a tense; rather, it is a mood. Tense refers to when an action takes place (past, present, future), while mood merely reflects how the speaker feels about the action. The subjunctive mood is rarely used in English, but it is widely used in Spanish.

Here are some examples of the subjunctive being used in English:

The law requires that you be 18 years old to vote.

I were a rich man, I wouldn't have to work hard.

So far, you have studied verb tenses in the indicative mood. The indicative mood is used to express factual information, certainty, and objectivity.

Mi madre trabaja en Primark

My mum works at Primark.

The subjunctive mood is used when you want to introduce an element of uncertainty and subjectivity, doubt or uncertainty:

Dudo que tu madre trabaje en Primark.

I doubt that your mum works at Primark.

Since the above statement does not express certainty, the subjunctive (trabaje) is required in the second clause:

Indicative

John works at Primark.

I know that John works at Primark.

There is no doubt that John works at Primark.

Subjunctive

I want John to work at Primark.

(The clause "I want" tells us that the speaker feels that there is uncertainty about John working at Primark, now or in the future)

I hope that John works at Primark

(he might work there, but it is not certain)

It is possible that John will work at Primark.

(The clause "it is possible" tells us that the speaker feels that there is uncertainty as to whether John will work at Primark or not.)

It's good that John works at Primark.

HOW TO CONJUGATE THE PRESENT SUBJUNCTIVE

For most verbs, the present subjunctive is formed as follows:

1. take the yo form of the present indicative.
2. drop the -o ending.
3. add the following endings:

-ar verbs: -e, -es, -e, -emos, -éis, -en

-er and -ir verbs: -a, -as, -a, -amos, -áis, -an

Regular -ar verbs	Regular -er verbs	Regular -ir verbs
hablo - o = habl	como - o = com	vivo - o = viv
hable	coma	viva
hables	comas	vivas
hable	coma	viva
hablemos	comamos	vivamos
habléis	comáis	viváis
hablen	coman	vivan

The formula also works for verbs that have irregular "yo" forms in the present indicative:

tener (tengo): tenga, tengas, tenga, tengamos, tengáis, tengan (subjunctive)

conocer (conozco): conozca, conozcas, conozca, conozcamos, conozcáis, conozcan salir (salgo): salga,...

For -ar and -er stem-changing verbs, the formula applies except that there is no stem change in the nosotros and vosotros forms:

pensar (pienso): piense, pienses, piense, pensemos, penséis, piensen

For -ir stem-changing verbs, the formula applies except that the stem change in the nosotros and vosotros forms follows these patterns: o:ue verbs change o to u; e:ie verbs change e to i; e:i verbs always change e to i:

dormir: duerma, duermas, duerma, durmamos, durmáis, duerman

preferir: prefiera, prefieras, prefiera, prefíramos, prefíráis, prefieran

pedir: pidá, pidás, pida, pidamos, pidáis, pidan

Remember that pronunciation always comes first and therefore some verbs will need some spelling changes to maintain the pronunciation:

- For verbs that end in -zar, the z changes to c when it comes before the letter e.

empezar: empiece, empieces, empiece, empecemos, empécéis, empiecen

- For verbs that end in -ger or -gir, the g changes to j when it comes before the letter a.

escoger: escoja, escojas, escoja, escojamos, escojáis, escojan

- For verbs that end in -guir, the gu changes to g when it comes before the letter a.
seguir: siga, sigas, siga, sigamos, sigáis, sigan
- For verbs that end in -car, the c changes to qu when it comes before the letter e.
buscar: busque, busques, busque, busquemos, busquéis, busquen
- For verbs that end in -gar, the g changes to gu when it comes before the letter e.
pagar: pague, pagues, pague, paguemos, paguéis, paguen
- For verbs that end in uir, add the letter y before the letter a.
huir: huya, huyas, huya, huyamos, huyáis, huyan

IRREGULAR VERBS: Here are the six verbs that are irregular in the present subjunctive:

dar - to give: dé, des, dé, demos, deis, den estar - to be: esté, estés, esté, estemos, estéis, estén haber - to have (auxiliary verb): haya, hayas, haya, hayamos, hayáis, hayan ir - to go: vaya, vayas, vaya, vayamos, vayáis, vayan saber - to know: sepa, sepas, sepa, sepamos, sepáis, sepan ser - to be: sea, seas, sea, seamos, seáis, sean

USES OF THE SUBJUNCTIVE

1. Expressing desire

One of the main ways we use the subjunctive is to express desire.

Here is a list of common expressions that introduce an aspect of desire to the sentence, and therefore trigger the use of the subjunctive.

pedir que ... - to ask that ...

sugerir que ... - to suggest that ...

Within this category we can include expressions that you can use to modify or have an impact on someone's behaviour:

Quiero que vayas a la tienda - I want you to go to the shop

Espero que vayas a la tienda - I expect you to go to the shop

Me gustaría que vayas a la tienda - I would like you to go to the shop

Preferiría que vayas a la tienda - I would prefer that you go to the shop

Te exijo que vayas a la tienda - I demand that you go to the shop

Please notice - it is a very common mistake for English speakers to forget to use the subjunctive in this kind of sentence and use an infinitive construction instead. This is always wrong:

I want you to be on time - Quiero que seas puntual (NOT "~~Quiero que tú ser puntual~~")

2. Expressing ignorance or doubt.

We use the subjunctive to introduce an aspect of ignorance or doubt to a sentence, to express uncertainty about what is just about what is going to be said.

Here is a list of common expressions that introduce that aspect of ignorance or doubt:

dudar que ... to doubt that ...
es dudoso que ... it is doubtful that ...
negar que ... to deny that ...
puede ser que ... it may be that ...
quizá (or “quizás”)... perhaps , maybe...
no es verdad que ... it's not true that ...
temer que ... to suspect that ...
no creer que ...not to believe that ...
no es cierto que ... it's not certain that ...
no estar convencido de que ... to not be convinced that ...
no estar seguro de que ... to not be sure that ...
no parecer que ... to not seem that ...
no suponer que ... to not suppose that ...

Please notice that the last few sentences are all negative. Their equivalent affirmative versions (“Creo que”, “es cierto que”...) do not require the use of the subjunctive, as they do not introduce an element of doubt.

3. After some impersonal expressions

Here is a list of common impersonal expressions that introduce an aspect of uncertainty or subjectivity, and therefore trigger the use of the subjunctive.

es aconsejable que ... it is advisable that ...
es bueno que ... it's good that ...
es difícil que ... it's unlikely that ...
es dudoso que ... it's doubtful that ...
es fácil que ... it's likely that ...
es fantástico que ... it's fantastic that ...
es importante que ... it's important that ...
es imposible que ... it's impossible that ...
es improbable que ... it's unlikely that ...
es incierto que ... it's uncertain that ...
es increíble que ... it's incredible that ...

es malo que ... it's bad that ...
es mejor que ... it's better that ...
es menester que ... it's necessary that ...
es necesario que ... it's necessary that ...
es posible que ... it's possible that ...
es preciso que ... it's necessary that ...
es preferible que ... it's preferable that ...
es probable que ... it's likely that ...
es raro que ... it's rare that ...
es ridículo que ... it's ridiculous that ...
es terrible que ... it's terrible that ...

(as a general rule, always use the subjunctive with expressions that follow the pattern “es + adjective + que”, unless you use “innegable”, “cierto”, “verdadero”, “obvio”, “evidente”, “real” or a few other adjectives which express complete certainty)

puede ser que ... it could be that ...

4. Actions that are not yet completed.

Here is a list of common expressions that may indicate that the action that follows has not yet been completed. These expressions will always invoke the subjunctive:

a menos que ... unless ...
antes (de) que ... before ...
con tal (de) que ... provided that ...
en caso de que ... in case ...
para que ... so that ...
sin que ... without ...

The following expressions only invoke the subjunctive when they indicate that the action that follows has not yet been completed:

después de que... after...
mientras que... while...
tan pronto como... as soon as...
cuando... when...

30. THE PASSIVE VOICE

Knowing the difference between active and passive voice makes a big difference in how things are phrased:

Active Voice

An agent (the doer of the sentence) is the subject of the verb and does something. There may or may not be an object (the thing done or person done to.)

Emilio escribe un libro en español. (Emilio is writing a book in Spanish.)

Mi madre cocinó la pizza en el horno. (My mom cooked the pizza in the oven.)

Los ingleses establecieron las colonias hace 200 años. (The English established the colonies 200 years ago.)

Most of the Spanish you have used so far has used the active voice (in other words, “normal” sentences are in the active voice)

Passive Voice

The passive voice indicates what happened to the object where the object is acted upon by an outside agent, which can be hidden or highlighted depending on the situation. You will only use transitive verbs (verbs that require a direct object). The formula ser + past participle (+ por + agente) is used to create the passive voice.

El libro fue escrito en español por mi profesor. (The book was written in Spanish by my professor.)

La pizza fue cocida en un horno por mi madre. (The pizza was cooked in an oven by my mother.)

Las colonias fueron establecidas por los ingleses hace 200 años. (The colonies were established 200 years ago.)

HOW TO USE THE PASSIVE VOICE:

The passive voice is much more common in English than in Spanish.

You should try to avoid using the passive voice unnecessarily, because the active voice comes across as more lively and does a better job of conveying action.

In English, the passive voice is formed by using a form of the verb "to be" followed by the past participle. It is the same in Spanish, where a form of ser is followed by the past participle. The past participle in such cases is modified if necessary to agree in number and gender with the subject of the sentence:

- El ordenador fue reprogramado - The computer was reset.
- Los ordenadores fueron reprogramados - The computers were reset.
- La niña desaparecida fue vista anoche - The missing girl was seen yesterday.
- Las niñas desaparecidas fueron vistas anoche - The missing girls were seen yesterday.

We tend to use the passive voice when we don't know or don't want to say who the agent of the sentence is (who saw the girls?) or when we do know it, but we don't want to place any emphasis on it (we assume the IT technician reset the computers).

The passive voice can be used in any tense, including tenses in the subjunctive mood:

La casa es construida con mucha rapidez
La casa está siendo construida con mucha rapidez
La casa fue construida con mucha rapidez
La casa será construida con mucha rapidez
La casa había sido construida con mucha rapidez
No creo que la casa sea construida con mucha rapidez
No creo que la casa fuera construida con mucha rapidez

HOW TO AVOID THE PASSIVE VOICE

The passive voice is not frequently used in Spanish. Usually several other methods of expressing an idea are used instead:

- Use the regular active voice instead. If an agent is given, use it as the subject. For example, instead of "The film was made by a famous director", write "A famous director made the film."

Un director famoso rodó la película (better than "~~La película fue rodada por un director famoso~~")

- Use the indefinite "they" as the subject. Instead of "It is said that...", use "They say that..." (Dicen que...). We don't need to know who "they" refers to:

Dicen que construyeron esta casa en 1002 (better than "~~Es dicho que esta casa fue construida en 1002~~")

- Use the impersonal phrase "se + he/she form of the verb" or "se + they form of the verb":

Se habla español - Spanish is spoken

Se venden huevos - Eggs are sold

This last kind of sentence is extremely usual in Spanish, as it is used all the time ("Se usa todo el tiempo").

AHORA PRACTICA:

a. Translate the following sentences into English.

1. Un hombre sospechoso fue visto ayer por los vecinos.
2. Plasencia fue fundada por Alfonso VIII en 1180.
3. Las ventanas fueron destruidas por la explosión.
4. El gatito fue rescatado por los bomberos.
5. La decisión fue tomada unánimemente por todos los miembros
6. La expedición fue atacada por un tigre.
7. Mi ropa fue diseñada por Chanel.
8. El Pingüino fue derrotado por Batman. Esta noche Gotham dormirá tranquila.

b. Change the following sentences from the active to the passive voice:

Ejemplo:

Ayer la nieve bloqueó la carretera: Ayer la carretera fue bloqueada por la nieve.

1. Mi padre preparó la comida.
2. El Primer Ministro firmó los documentos.
3. La arquitecta diseñó la casa.
4. Un médico muy experimentado operó al cantante.
5. El profesor no explicó la pasiva muy bien.
6. Los niños no comprendieron la pasiva muy bien.
7. Godzilla destruyó Tokio.
8. España ganó el Mundial de Fútbol en 2010.
9. Todas las chicas aprobaron el examen.
10. El Tribunal Supremo aprobó la nueva ley.
11. Colón descubrió América.
12. El Partido Chorizo ganó las elecciones.
13. Mi amigo compró una casa.

c. Re write the sentences in activity a avoiding the passive voice. You can use the active voice, the “they” form of the verb or make them impersonal with “se”

ejemplo:

1. Un hombre sospechoso fue visto ayer por los vecinos: Los vecinos vieron a un hombre sospechoso / Vieron a un hombre sospechoso / Se vio a un hombre sospechoso.

31. CONDITIONAL CLAUSES (IF CLAUSES)

There are three main types of conditional clauses (if clauses):

First conditional: Likely situations (present + present, future, or imperative)

Second conditional: Unlikely situations (imperfect subjunctive + conditional)

Third conditional: Impossible situations (pluperfect subjunctive + pluperfect subjunctive or conditional perfect)

The first verb tense listed is the one that follows si (if), while the second tense is the "result clause".

FIRST CONDITIONAL: Possible or Likely Situations

There are three constructions for expressing possible or likely situations, known as the first conditional. Each of these constructions requires the present tense in the conditional clause (that is, the clause that begins with si and expresses the condition that must be met for the result clause to occur), whereas the other verb can be in the present, the future (most of the time) or the imperative.

1a - Si Present, Present

The si + present tense, present tense construction is used for things that happen when a condition is met. Sometimes the si in these sentences could probably be replaced by cuando with little or no difference in meaning.

Si llueve, no trabajamos - If it rains, we don't work.

No trabajamos si llueve - We don't work if it rains.

Si no quiero leer veo la televisión - If I don't want to read I watch TV.

Veo la televisión si no quiero leer - I watch TV if I don't want to read.

Cuando llueve no trabajamos – We don't work when it rains.

1b - Si Present, Future

The si + present tense, future tense construction is used for events that will occur (in the future) if the condition is met (in the present):

Si tengo tiempo, lo haré - If I have time, I will do it.

Lo haré si tengo tiempo - I will do it if I have time.

Si estudias, aprobarás - If you study, you will pass.

Aprobarás si estudias - You will pass if you study.

1c. Si Present, Imperative

The si + present tense, imperative construction is used to give an order (in the imperative) dependent on the condition being met (in the present).

Si puedes, llama mañana - If you can, call tomorrow.

Llama mañana si puedes - Call tomorrow if you can.

Si Ud. tiene dinero, pague la cuenta - If you have money, pay the bill.

Pague la cuenta si tiene dinero - Pay the bill if you have money.

SECOND CONDITIONAL: Unlikely or Currently Contrary Situations

The second most common type of si clause refers to unlikely or currently contrary situations. I call these "currently contrary" because the situation described is not currently true. But if the situation changed, the result clause would be able to occur.

The currently contrary si-clause, known as the second conditional, is expressed as follows: the condition clause (which starts with si) requires the imperfect subjunctive, while the result clause takes the conditional. The order of the clauses is unimportant.

For example...

Si tuviera dinero, iría contigo - If I had money, I would go with you.

Iría contigo si tuviera dinero - I would go with you if I had money.

Si fueras con nosotros, podrías ver a tu hermano. - If you went with us, you could see your brother.

Podrías ver a tu hermano si fueras con nosotros. - You could see your brother if you went with us.

Imperfecto de Subjuntivo

We haven't used the imperfect subjunctive in this booklet yet. To conjugate the imperfect subjunctive, take the third person plural preterite form of any regular, irregular, or stem-changing verb, drop the -RON ending to find the stem, and add the appropriate ending:

-RA conjugation

yo	-ra	nosotros
tú	-ras	vosotros
él	-ra	ellos

-SE conjugation

yo	-se	nosotros	-semos
tú	-ses	vosotros	-seis
él	-se	ellos	-sen

Use the same endings for ar, er or ir verbs.

Both sets of endings (-ra conjugation or -se conjugation) are equally acceptable and it doesn't make a difference which one you choose.

THIRD CONDITIONAL: Impossible Situations

The least common type of si clause is used to refer to "impossible situations". This is used when referring to something that would have happened if some condition had been met. Since the condition was not met, the result clause is impossible.

The condition clause (which starts with si) requires the pluperfect subjunctive, while the result clause takes either the pluperfect subjunctive or the conditional perfect. The order of the clauses is unimportant.

For example...

Si hubiera sabido, hubiera ido (or habría ido) contigo. - If I had known, I would have gone with you.

Hubiera ido (or Habría ido) contigo si hubiera sabido - I would have gone with you if I had known.

¿Hubieras (or habrías) comprado el libro si te hubiera dicho? - Would you have bought the book if I had told you?

¿Si te hubiera dicho, hubieras (or habrías) comprado el libro? - If I had told you, would you have bought the book?

The past perfect subjunctive (or pluperfect subjunctive)

The pluperfect subjunctive is a compound tense. It is formed from the imperfect subjunctive of the auxiliary verb haber and the past participle.

The imperfect subjunctive of haber is as follows:

(yo)	hubiera or hubiese
(tú)	hubieras or hubieses
(el, ella, usted)	hubiera or hubiese
(nosotros)	hubiéramos or hubiésemos
(vosotros)	hubierais or hubieseis
(ellos, ellas, ustedes)	hubieras or hubiesen

The conditional perfect tense

The conditional perfect is a compound tense. It is formed from the conditional tense of the auxiliary verb haber and the past participle.

The conditional tense of haber is as follows:

(yo)	habría
(tú)	habrías
(el, ella, usted)	habría
(nosotros)	habríamos
(vosotros)	habríais
(ellos, ellas, ustedes)	habrían

PRACTICA:

1. If I were rich, I would buy a house.

2. If you're not tired, tell me a story.

3. We would eat if they were ready.

4. If she gives you the money, will you buy a car?

5. I will go to the market if you wash the dishes.

6. If he's happy, he laughs a lot.

7. If they wanted bread, they would tell me.

8. Your brothers would cry if you lost.

9. If you have the camera, take ("make") a picture.

10. Will we sell the house if you lose your job?

11. If I'm the fastest, I'll win.

12. If you want to study, you should tell them.

13. I can't sleep if it's hot.

14. If you're hungry, eat something.

15. He'll be happy if he gets married.

16. If I had known I would have told you.

17. If you had not gone on holidays you would have been so stressed.

18. If they had arrived on time, we would have already finished.

19. If she had asked, I would have helped her.

20. If Ofelia hadn't met the faun she would not have become a princess.
