

Springwood High School English Curriculum Plan

Our Vision:

Students of Springwood High School will be able to articulate their ideas and feelings with confidence and sensitivity, both verbally and in writing; appreciate and respect different perspectives and cultures; think deeply; find joy in writers' choices; and develop their own personal reading tastes.

Exam Boards: GCSE: English Literature - AQA; English Language - Edexcel

A Level: English Literature - OCR ; English Language and Literature - Edexcel

Brief overview of topics, themes, skills or key questions for each term:

Key Stage 3

Why are we teaching a knowledge-rich curriculum; how is it different?

Our knowledge-rich curriculum is inspired by David Didau's advocation of English—as an academic discipline—being underpinned by a series of abstract concepts. There are eight concepts, explored in detail through carefully chosen concrete examples (core and supplementary texts), providing students with a core body of conceptual knowledge.

In addition to this, we ensure that the curriculum is knowledge-rich in terms of the disciplinary knowledge: we teach students how to write their own texts—imaginative, transactional, and analytical—and there is a body of knowledge attached to the production of writing.

Why are we teaching this content, in this order?

By its very nature, the exploration of abstract concepts is challenging for students, so we have sequenced the teaching of these concepts to reflect levels of complexity. We begin with the fundamental concept that there is a relationship between text and context; from there, concepts begin to increase in their complexity. However, no one concept is taught in complete isolation—this is both impossible and unhelpful; instead, while a concept may well be foregrounded to be the key focus of the term, other concepts are continuously referred to to ensure that students are developing their schema of English. This provides them with the essential knowledge and understanding of how texts are constructed, preparing them for GCSE—and A-level—study of English.

How does our curriculum match the ambition of the National Curriculum?

Our curriculum matches the ambition of the National Curriculum. We are also seeking to develop and raise the profile of some specific areas: for example, the inclusion of more non-fiction texts and increasing the diversity of our chosen texts.

How does the curriculum build on that from Key Stage 2?

Our curriculum naturally builds on the knowledge taught at KS2, particularly with regard to developing higher order thinking in response to texts. KS2 generally requires students to read and comprehend texts and make some justifiable inferences; at KS3, it is vital that we begin to seed the skills necessary to succeed at GCSE and beyond, so we teach students how to construct a supported argument about a text; analyse the impact of the writer's methods; and compare texts.

At KS2, students have had experience of producing a range of texts, and our curriculum at KS3 seeks to build on their pre-existing literacy, as well as encourage them to begin to consider their own language and structural choices in a more nuanced way.

By the end of Key Stage 3, what key knowledge should pupils need to remember and be able to apply in this subject?

At the end of KS3, students are taught a unit that revises all the concepts they have been exposed to, and that requires them to draw on and apply their conceptual knowledge (as well as their disciplinary knowledge with regard to how to construct an essay) to a question about literature. Knowledge and application of all concepts and skills helps to prepare students for the demands of KS4 study: the set texts for Literature; the unseen texts in English Language; and the production of their own imaginative and transactional texts.

The explicit connections that are made between concepts and texts across KS3, and then into KS4/KS5, supports this. We use retrieval practice as a tool to consolidate and extend knowledge; knowledge organisers also help to embed core knowledge. Both Tier 2 and 3 vocabulary is taught explicitly across KS3 and into KS4 to help students articulate their ideas and confidently discuss literary concepts.

Year	Autumn 1	Autumn 2	Spring 1	Spring 2	Summer 1	Summer 2
7	Story & Context This scheme develops awareness that texts are constructs and that stories and writers are influenced by their contexts. Key Text:Sir Gawain & the Green Knight, translated by Simon Armitage. This text allows us to explore a particular historical context—knightly values in the 14thcentury— and its impact on the characters and ideas a writer includes.		Characterisation This scheme focuses on how writers make deliberate choices when constructing characters, and that characters are developed in a particular way to suit the story. Key Text: The Graveyard Book, by Neil Gaiman. This bildungsroman presents us with a plucky protagonist, who learns a lot about himself and his community as he grows up. We explore the ways in which Gaiman assigns certain attributes to define both the protagonist and antagonist.		Genre & Theme This scheme is focused on understanding how genre is established and the themes we expect to see within a particular genre. Key Text: The Giver, by Lois Lowry. This text allows us to explore a particular genre— dystopia. The novel incorporates all of the common ideas and characters, which we study within the text's generic context.
8	PerspectiveWe consider how a writer's perspective is influenced by their context, and how the characters and ideas in the text can be used as a vehicle through which to express a perspective.Key Text: Journey's End, by RC Sherriff. This play offers a perspective on war shaped by experience and trauma: we can see how realism is used to create an authentic representation of life in a dugout, and how a critical perspective is implied through the play's events and characterisation.		principles of rhetoric, teaching students that— through language and structure—the text can be cleverly manipulated to align the reader or audience's perspective with that of the writer or speaker.thought and language about how symbols of more abstract ideas iKey Text: Animal Farm, by George Orwell. This allegorical text exemplifies theKey Text: Animal Farm, by George Orwell. Piggy's glasses, the b		Symbolism In this scheme, we explo thought and language so about how symbols can be more abstract ideas in lit Key Text: Lord of the Flie This text allows us to con range of symbols—for ex Piggy's glasses, the beast text's pervading themes.	that students learn be used to represent erature. Is, by William Golding. sider the impact of a cample, the conch,

9	Representation	Structure	Advanced Application of the Concepts
	This scheme explores how characterisation and language can be used to represent groups in society across fictional and dramatic texts, and the media; it teaches students to recognise that these representations are influenced by context and perspective, and are a version of reality. Key Text: Othello and at least one other play, by William Shakespeare. We use these Shakespeare texts to explore how 'the other' is represented, associating key themes of the plays with these representations.	We consider how the organisation of ideas will impact the way in which the reader responds to the text, as well as exploring some formal conventions of poetry, and structure at sentence level. Key Text: Heroes, by Robert Cormier. The non-linearity of this text makes for an interesting exploration of structure, as the writer prepares us for key revelations; subverts expectations; and creates a suspenseful experience for the reader.	The final scheme of KS3 will culminate in revision of all concepts studied, requiring students to further secure and apply their knowledge more independently in their reading, writing and spoken language as they prepare for GCSE study. Key Text:A range of diverse short stories and extracts from C19 texts. These texts will allow for prolonged exposure to our rich literary canon, ensuring students become more familiar and confident with syntactical and linguistic challenges of texts from this period.

Key Stage 4

	Autumn Term	Spring Term	Summer Term
Year 10	English Language: Imaginative	English Literature: Modern Text: An	English Language: Transactional
	writing	Inspector Calls (includes English	writing; spoken language
	English Literature: The 19 th Century	Language skills of analysis of	endorsement
	Novel: A Christmas Carol (includes	language and structure and	English Literature: Shakespeare:
	English Language skills of analysis of	evaluation); AQA Power and Conflict	Macbeth (includes English Language language and structure and	Poetry	skills of analysis of language and evaluation); AQA Power and Conflict		structure and evaluation); AQA
	Poetry		Power and Conflict Poetry

Year 11	English Language: Paper 1 and	English Language: Paper 1 and	English Language: Revision in
	Paper 2 skills	Paper 2 skills (in response to	response to common issues
	English Literature: Revision of	common issues identified in	identified in Spring PPEs and
	Modern Text: An Inspector Calls;	November PPEs)	preparation for final exam
	unseen poetry	English Literature: Revision of	English Literature: Revision in Shakespeare: Macbeth; revision of	response to common issues
		the 19 th Century Novel: A Christmas	identified in Spring PPEs and
		Carol	preparation for final exam

Key Stage 5

	Autumn Term	Spring Term	Summer Term
Year 12	Lang Lit: Voices in Speech and	Lang Lit: Prose fiction text- anchor	Lang Lit:
	Writing Anthology	text (Component 2 Section B)	2nd literary text
	(Component 1 Section A)	Great Expectations	(Component 2 Section B)
	The creation of voice in non-literary	Analysis through extracts	The Great Gatsby
	texts – personal and social factors.	Introduction to drama text: A	Analysis through extracts
	Introduction to literary text analysis;	Streetcar Named Desire	Comparison of prose fiction texts
	Component 2 Section A non-fiction	(Component 1 Section B)	Component 2 Section B
	texts	Lit: Poetry text for Component 1	Coursework reading/research task
	Lit: Text 1 of Component 2	(pre-1900 drama and poetry): The	(Component 3)
	(comparative and contextual): The	Merchant's Tale; Shakespeare text	Introduction: Fiction Writing
	Bloody Chamber; post-1900 poetry	for Component 1 (pre-1900 drama	Fiction writing (Component 3)
	text for Task 1 (NEA): Tyrannosaurus	and poetry): Hamlet	Introduction to creative non-fiction
	Rex versus the Corduroy Kid		writing (Component 3)
			Creative non-fiction writing
			Lit: Text 2 for Component 1 (pre-1900 poetry and drama): A Doll's
			House; Text 2 for Component 2:
			Dracula. Preparation for Task 2
			(NEA)

Year 13	Lang Lit: Literary texts (Component	Lang Lit: Anthology Texts	Lang Lit Revision and exam
	2 section B) Whitsun Weddings	(Component 1 Section A)	preparation
	(selected poems) Revision of literary	Non-literary text analysis within texts. (Component 2 section B)	studied theme (The Individual &	Lit: Revision and exam preparation
	Coursework – Commentary	Society). (Component 2 section A)
	(Component 3)	Drama text (Component 1 Section
	Lit: Shakespeare text for	B): A Streetcar Named Desire
	Component 1 (pre-1900 drama and	Lit: Text 3 of Component 2 (The poetry): The Tempest; Text 2 of	Handmaid's Tale), making Component 2 (comparative and	connections with other texts
	contextual): Brave New World; Task	already studied (Nineteen Eighty-
	2 (NEA)	Four and Brave New World) and wider reading; revision of texts for Component 1 (The Merchant's Tale and A Doll's House)

